The Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education in compliance with Titles VI and VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and other federal laws and regulations do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age, religion, handicap, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices, or procedures. This includes but is not limited to admissions, employment, financial aid, and educational services.

This publication was prepared and distributed on authorization of the State Regents as a regular part of the work of the agency. There were 500 copies printed by Southwestern Stationery and Bank Supply at a cost of $4,680 ($9.36 per copy).

CHAPTER I
PROGRESS AND PLANS

THE OKLAHOMA STATE SYSTEM OF HIGHER EDUCATION

General Progress of the State System

Chancellor E. T. Dunlap

The purpose of this section is to summarize the progress and prospects of Oklahoma higher education, both for historical documentation and to provide useful and informative data for the 1981 Oklahoma Legislature, the Governor, State System institutions and others interested in higher education in the state. The highlights of progress and statistics presented in this section are from the perspective of the state-level coordinating agency, the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education.

The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education, coordinated by the State Regents, concluded a major long-range planning activity during 1979-80, preparing both institutional plans and state-level policy directions for the development of the State System through 1985. The state-level document, Planning for the 1980's, was approved by the State Regents and prepared for publication at the end of the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The document deals with demographic and socioeconomic trends affecting higher education, higher education enrollments and projections through 1985, higher education programs and degrees, higher education faculty, higher education budgeting and finance, and recommendations for the 1980's.

This latter section contains 16 policy recommendations, the most basic of which is that the State Regents adopt the concept of statewide planning as a cooperative and continuous process. Related policy recommendations include the creation of a staff office for planning and the formation of a series of planning councils and ad hoc advisory committees made up of representatives of colleges and universities to work with the State Regents and their staff to implement the concept of continuous planning.

During the course of the year, the State Regents revised their Policy on the Admission of Students for Whom English is a Second Language and promulgated a new Policy on Health Education Programs with External Clinical Components.

In November, 1979, the State Regents received a special staff report of a study of the agricultural agencies administered by Oklahoma State University. As a result of recommendations contained in this report, the Regents set new priorities for the agencies involved and revised budgetary support to aid in the implementation of the priorities.

At their February 5, 1980, meeting the State Regents received a special staff report begun in 1979 entitled, The Status of Medical Education in Oklahoma. The Regents adopted seven policy recommendations made in the report relating to the training of Physicians, including a provision that Oklahoma's public medical colleges accept a number of first-year students sufficient to allow for the production of at least 250 physicians annually.

On the basis of a recommendation in the study, the State Regents requested that the 1980 Oklahoma Legislature create a board of regents to govern The Oklahoma College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery, for which the State Regents had served as the governing board since the college's inception in 1972. The Legislature, through the adoption of Senate Bill No. 539, created such a board, consisting of seven members to be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the State Senate. The bill also provided for an orderly process of transferral of the governance of the institution to the new board.

On April 24-25, 1980, the State Regents sponsored another in their series of Great Issues in Higher Education seminars. A total of 267 individuals were present and participated in the discussion of issues pertinent to the planning for the further development of Oklahoma higher education in the decade of the 1980's. Several presentations were made by nationally recognized consultants in the field of higher education planning.

At their March 26, 1980, meeting the State Regents acted to raise the limits on Guaranteed Student Loans from $1,800 to $2,200 per school year for undergraduates and from $3,000 to $3,600 per school year for graduate students. A similar revision in the limits of loans made under the Oklahoma Student Loan Program was adopted by the Oklahoma Student Loan Authority in April, 1980. The new limits, brought about by the rising costs of attending college, were to take effect July 1, 1980.

Student Enrollments. The number of students enrolling in Oklahoma higher education, both public and private, in the fall semester of 1980 was 164,247, which was an increase of 6,957 students (4.4%) over the 157,290 enrolled in the fall semester of the previous year. Of these, 141,006 were enrolled in state-supported colleges and universities, an increase of 4.9 percent over the 134,406 enrolled in these institutions in the fall semester of the previous year. Thus, about 86 percent of all students enrolled in Oklahoma higher education in 1980-81 were in state-supported institutions, and 14.1 percent of the students were in private institutions of higher education.

The number of first-time freshmen enrolling in Oklahoma higher education in the fall of 1980 is equal to 86.4 percent in the number of Oklahoma high school graduates in the spring of 1980. The college-going rate places Oklahoma near the top of the 50 states.

Of the 134,406 students enrolled in the State System institutions in the fall of 1979, 90.1 percent were residents of Oklahoma, and approximately 9.9 percent were from other states and foreign countries.

Accreditation of Institutions. All 43 colleges and universities operating in the State of Oklahoma last year were accredited by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education. All institutions of the State System and 11 private colleges and universiites are also accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, the regional accrediting agency. Oklahoma ranks among the leading states of the nation in the percent of its college students attending regional accredited colleges and universities. Schools attending institutions so accredited are eligible for transfer to colleges and universities anywhere in the nation where their credits are accepted at face value.

New Educational Programs. During the past fiscal year, several new educational programs were authorized at colleges and universities in the State System. Bachelor's degree programs were authorized as follows: Northeastern Oklahoma State University — Computer and Information Service, Social Work; Southwestern Oklahoma State University — Music Education Therapy; Cameron University — Agricultural Education; Langston University — Psychology, Nutrition and Dietetics, Computer Science, Gerontology; Oklahoma Panhandle State University — Vocational Agricultural Education. Master's degree programs were authorized as follows: University of Oklahoma — Juvenile Justice; Central State University — Criminal Justice and Administration, Home Economics, Professional Services; East Central Oklahoma State University — Human Services; Northwestern Oklahoma State University — Special Education for the Gifted. Doctoral degree programs were authorized as follows: University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center — Pharmaceutical Sciences; Oklahoma State University — Computing Sciences. Associate degree programs were authorized as follows: Carl Albert Junior College — Computer Science; Claremore Junior College — Legal Assistant, Real Estate, Home Economics, Broadcasting; El Reno Junior College — Computer Technology, Horticulture and Lands Technology; Murray State College — Horse Management and Training; Oscar Rose Junior College — Aviation, Consumer Economics; South Oklahoma City Junior College — Security and Loss Management; Western Oklahoma State College — Nursing. Certificate programs were authorized as follows: Claremore Junior College — Real Estate.

Student Aid. The Guaranteed Student Loan Program, which became operational in 1966, has guaranteed about 71,821 loans in excess of $73,481,000. This program involves a unique partnership of state and Federal Government with private lending institutions to provide low-cost loans to students. The Guaranteed Student Loan Program has become an integral part of the Financial Aids package for Oklahoma students desiring to further their education. The 1972 Oklahoma Legislature enacted Senate Bill No. 618 providing for the Oklahoma Student Loan Program. The purpose of this program is to provide loans to students as may be needed to help pay the cost of their education. The program supplements the Guaranteed Student Loan Program and provides a lending source to eligible students who are not otherwise able to identify a lender. There have been 23,319 loans, representing an investment of $21,756,369, made to students of higher education since beginning of operation of this program. The Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education serves as fiscal agent for the administration of the Oklahoma Student Loan Program.

The Tuition Aid Grant/State Student Incentive Grant Program became operational in 1974. Funding of this program on a matching basis with State and Federal funds makes the implementation of an important addition to the already extensive program of student assistance administered by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education. During the 1979-80 academic year, awards totaling $2,189,025 were made to 9,751 students.

Civil Rights Compliance Activities. Operating under the Oklahoma Revised State Plan for Civil Rights Compliance, the State Regents made an Annual Report on programs in the area of civil rights. This report indicated a steady state situation in the participation of minorities in higher education in Oklahoma, although in certain areas much work remains to accomplish complete desegregation.

Among the general areas discussed in the report were admissions and recruitment. Affirmative action training programs for management personnel of institutions of higher education and for high school counselors have been continued. Articulation between junior colleges and senior institutions was reported, as was the program providing for free ACT examinations to indigent minority students. Overall recruitment procedures and results were reported, as well as the minority assistance program for master's, doctoral and first-year professional students.

In June, 1980, the State Regents submitted for the third year to the Office for Civil Rights, Affirmative Action Compliance Plans from each individual institution in the State System. These plans, which total some 1,500 pages, represent institutions' commitment to goals of participation for black employees within the State System of Higher Education and were submitted with the endorsement and commitment of the Presidents of the institutions and governing boards.

For the fifth time, comprehensive reports by race and sex were made to the Office for Civil Rights on the number and classification of institutional employees, student enrollment, student progression, and student financial aid. This report was constructed by means of the State Regents' Unitized Data System.

Health Careers Opportunity Program. As part of the effort to increase the participation of minorities in the health professions within the Oklahoma State System of Higher Education, the State Regents received from the U.S. Public Health Service a Special Health Careers Opportunity Grant in the fall of 1977. This grant has been used to fund the Health Careers Opportunity Program, which is operated as an integral part of the Revised State Plan for Civil Rights Compliance.

The Health Careers Opportunity Program consists of a number of structured activities: the Summer Enrichment Institute, the Summer Health Career Opportunity Cooperative Education Project, and the Chemistry Research Project. These three projects have provided 111 college students with intensive health-related training and experience to date. Also through several unstructured program activities (high school visitations, college recruitment, and the Student Information Clearinghouse), over 5,000 high school and college students have been contacted with information concerning the health career field. The Public Health Service Grant for the Health Careers Opportunity Program will end on September 30, 1980.

Ardmore Higher Education Program. The Ardmore Higher Education Program had its beginning in the summer of 1974 with classes on the Ardmore High School campus. In August 1974, the program was moved to its own facilities at the Mount Washington School north of Ardmore, which served the Ardmore Higher Education Center for the past six years. A new facility is being constructed and will be available for use in November 1980. The new building is being provided at a cost of approximately $450,000, with all funds being donated from local citizens with a challenge grant from the Noble Foundation. This new facility will be the permanent home of the Ardmore Higher Education Center and is located close to the new Ardmore High School to provide the potential for using some of the public school space during the evening hours.

The enrollment at the Ardmore Higher Education Center has increased from a fall 1974 headcount enrollment of 283 in 24 classes to a fall 1979 headcount enrollment of 661 in 58 classes.

McCurtain County Higher Education Program. The McCurtain County Higher Education Program in Idabel had its beginning in the fall of 1976. In 1978, the people of McCurtain County voted to build a new higher education facility for the center through a bond issue to be paid back from a county-wide tax levy. The new facility is to be completed in August 1980 and will provide approximately 27,000 square feet, 12 classrooms, library, student lounge, and appropriate office space. This is an outstanding facility for the McCurtain County Higher Education Program and will provide appropriate higher education space for the citizens of the McCurtain County area.

The enrollment changes reflect a beginning fall 1976 headcount enrollment of 268 students in 20 classes compared with a fall 1979 semester headcount enrollment of 492 students in 35 different classes.

Educational Information Centers Program. A comprehensive State Plan was implemented in 1978 to provide educational information, guidance, counseling, and referral services to all individuals in the state through Centers located for convenient accessibility. An information bank of educational and career opportunities is being developed centrally and made available to institutions and special agencies at less cost than individual development of data. Consistency of information, quality of service, and improved recruitment strategy to increase student enrollment are outcomes being realized as a result of this program. The U.S. Office of Education provides limited financial support, and all funds are used to provide materials to colleges and universities and for state administration. All public and private colleges and universities are participating in this program with an Educational Information Officer functioning on each campus. A network for providing educational information will result in increased accessibility and opportunity for all citizens of Oklahoma, especially for adults.

Technical-Occupational Programs. In 1974-75 the State Regents adopted a policy statement of "Criteria and Procedures for the Evaluation of Technical-Occupational Programs at Institutions in The State System of Higher Education." The criteria and procedures set forth in the policy statement were designed to assess the adequacy and quality of existing programs. Under the policy, at least 20 percent of the technical programs at State System institutions are evaluated each year. The United States Commissioner of Education recognizes the State Regents as the official Oklahoma State agency for approval and accreditation of post-secondary institutions offering programs of vocational-occupational education.

During the academic year 1979-80, technical programs were evaluated at Central State University, Edmond, Oklahoma; East Central Oklahoma State University, Ada, Oklahoma; Northeastern Oklahoma State University, Tahlequah, Oklahoma; Northwestern Oklahoma State University, Alva, Oklahoma; Southeastern Oklahoma State University, Durant, Oklahoma; Southwestern Oklahoma State University, Weatherford, Oklahoma; Cameron University, Lawton, Oklahoma; Oklahoma Panhandle State University, Goodwell, Oklahoma; Seminole Junior College, Seminole, Oklahoma; and Sayre Junior College, Sayre, Oklahoma.

An inventory of educational programs conducted in 1980 reveals that there are currently 410 technical-occupational programs being offered at 25 state institutions with a projected full-time-equivalent enrollment of 18,962 and 27,606 headcount students expected for the 1980-81 academic year.

Studies for Planning. The State Regents regularly gather and publish data in such areas as student enrollments, degrees conferred, institutional income and expenditures, faculty salaries, student fees and other student charges and the like. In addition to these ongoing reports, the State Regents carry out mid-range and long-range higher education planning at the state level, and provide leadership to stimulate institutions to do similar planning at the campus level.

In June of 1980, the State Regents completed a planning document entitled Oklahoma Higher Education: Planning for the 1980's. The publication of that document culminated a three-year planning effort by the Regents in cooperation with the leadership of colleges and universities in Oklahoma higher education. The planning document sets forth public policy directions and planning guidelines for colleges and universities during the first half of the 1980's.

Degrees Conferred. In the year 1979-80, 10,867 Bachelor's and First Professional degrees were conferred by State System institutions, which was an increase of 6 percent over the 10,244 degrees conferred by State System institutions in 1969-70. In the past year, there were 2,914 Master's degrees conferred by State System institutions, which is a 14 percent increase over the 2,555 Master's degrees conferred 10 years ago. There were 359 Doctor's degrees conferred by State System universities in 1979-80, which is a 22.5 percent decrease from the 463 Doctorates conferred a decade ago.

Televised Instruction System. The Oklahoma Higher Education Televised Instruction System (more commonly known as Talkback Television) completed expansion in 1980 to the McCurtain County Higher Education Center in Idabel, and provided additional receiving classrooms at the Oklahoma State Reformatory at Granite, Altus Air Force Base in Altus, new facilities at the Halliburton Services location in Duncan, and is working to provide facilities at the Ponca City Library and the Kerr Conference Center in Poteau. Enrollments in Talkback Television continue to grow, matching record levels of 1979, with enrollments received at some sixty-two locations. Sequential course offerings, special degree programs and special service courses and workshops continue to develop.

Title I (HEA) Community Service and Continuing Education Program. On September 16, 1972, the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education accepted the responsibility as the State Agency for Title I (HEA). This program enables the U. S. Commissioner of Education to make grants to states to strengthen the Community Service and Continuing Education Programs of colleges and universities. Title I (HEA) is administered as a state operation under a state plan which identifies certain priority areas in which the institutions concentrate their project activities. During Fiscal 1979, citizens were served by nine Title I Projects. Participants were served in each of the priority areas identified for the State of Oklahoma. For Fiscal Year 1980, there are seven primary institutions of higher education in Oklahoma involved in seven projects in Title I.

Number of Faculty. The total faculty of all Oklahoma higher education in 1979-80 was approximately 7,388 individuals. Of this number, 4,526 were full-time regular faculty members, and 2,862 were part-time teachers. Of the full-time faculty, 3,680 were in the state-supported colleges and universities, and 846 were in private institutions. Of the 2,862 part-time teachers, 2,628 of these were in State System colleges and universities, and 234 were in the private institutions.

Faculty Salaries. The average salary paid all regular full-time teachers in The Oklahoma State System institutions in 1979-80 was $19,346 for the 9-10 month academic year. The figure represents a 30.1 percent increase over the $14,806 average salary paid five years ago. The average salary at the universities was $21,345 which is an increase of 26.4 percent over the $16,884 of five years ago; the average salary at the four-year colleges was $19,441 which is a 36.0 percent increase over the $14,293 average of five years ago; and the average salary at two-year colleges was $16,046 which is an increase of 36.8 percent over the $11,731 average of five years ago.

Current Operating Expenditures. There was a total of $492,719,302 expended for current operations in The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education in the Fiscal Year 1979-80. Of this amount, $294,352,736 was expended for the Educational and General-Part I Operating Budget; $51,682,933 was expended for the Educational and General-Part II Operating Budget (Sponsored Research and Programs); $28,948,465 was expended for Student Aid; and $117,735,168 was expended for Auxiliary Enterprises (housing, food services, student unions, etc.). Of the total current budget, 59.7 percent was expended for the regular educational and general operating budget, and 40.3 percent was expended for Sponsored Research and Programs, Student Aid and Auxiliary Enterprises.

Capital Improvements Program. Colleges and universities in the State System have been engaged in a capital improvements program which had been planned for accomplishment during the period 1965 to 1975. Phase I, 1965 to 1970, was accomplished at a cost of $63,508,695 with $38,500,000 of the funding coming from state funds, and $29,008,695 from federal and private funds.

In 1968, the people authorized a bond issue to provide the states part of the funding for Phase II of the Capital Improvements Program. The bond issue contained $34,250,000 for regular campus improvements and $26,870,000 for improvements at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center. This Phase II Program was delayed by the Federal Government's curtailing federal funding to match state monies to underwrite projects. Although funds for health-related projects were delayed, federal funds wre finally made available for construction at the Health Sciences Center. Only a small portion of federal funds was made available for regular campus projects.

In the spring of 1973, the Oklahoma Legislature in its adoption of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 8 authorized the State Regents to proceed with allocation of state funds to accomplish as much of the capital improvements which had been planned for colleges and universities as could be done with state funds. Federal funds had not been made available, and it became necessary that the Regents and institutions move forward with making certain improvements at the campuses.

The Resolution also expressed intent of the Legislature that the State Regents in revising Campus Master Plans of projects to be accomplished give priority to the modernization and repair and provide modernized equipment for good, old buildings on the campuses.

The State Regents adopted a set of guidelines and procedures for carrying out legislative intent expressed in SCR No. 8 and requested that each institution file a revised Campus Master Plan of projects to be accomplished with the limited amount of state funds available to underwrite the costs. These campus plans subsequently were revised and priorities established and were submitted for the approval of the State Regents. Upon approval, the Regents authorized allocation of funds for accomplishing projects in priority order, the extent to which funds were available.

There had been a total of 336 projects approved for accomplishment in the revised Campus Master Plans of all institutions; but, as indicated, funds were not available for funding all of the projects.

Additional funding will need to be provided by the Oklahoma Legislature to complete the projects planned for accomplishment in Phase II of the ten-year Capital Improvements Program.

INSTITUTIONAL REPORTS

A brief summary of the services, achievements, problems and progress at each institution and agency of The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education for the year ending June 30, 1980, as reported by the Presidents, is presented on the following pages. Also reports from Sayre Junior College and private institutions are included.

Statistical information regarding the operation of institutions will be found in Chapter II of this report.

THE UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA

PRESIDENT WILLAM S. BANOWSKY

Norman, Oklahoma

Growth — in the form of increased enrollments, improved funding, new programs, accelerated research, and new construction — permeated most divisions of the University of Oklahoma's Norman campus in 1979-80, a positive sign that the university is moving rapidly toward its goal of national distinction as an academic institution.

An 18.4 percent increase in state appropriations over fiscal year 1978-79 opened the fiscal year on a positive note. The bulk of the new monies was earmarked for instructional areas with $815,000 designated to enrich five areas: the library through the acquisition of books, the School of Geology and Geophysics, and the Colleges of Engineering, Business Administration and Fine Arts. Twenty-four new full-time faculty positions were provided and $125,000 was set aside as seed money to initiate faculty research. Just as the fiscal year was ending, the University received word of another record appropriation — a 19.8 percent increase in state funds for 1980-81, which will allow the university to build further on the foundations set in 1979-80.

Private support for the University topped $13 million, more than $2.5 million more than the previous fiscal year. Included in the fund raising efforts of the university was the drive to raise $3 million of the $6 million in private funds needed for OU's portion of the Bizzell Library expansion project.

More than $1 million in funds from the OU Associates were used exclusively for academic enrichment through such activities as supporting new instructors for freshman English, sponsoring visiting scholars, the purchase of equipment, and the recognition of outstanding teaching.

Private support also allowed for the development of the teaching staff. A $25,000 annual contribution will provide for a director of English composition to be added to the English department. An honorary professorship in the humanities was established by an anonymous $300,000 gift. A chair in banking, funded by the state's banking community, was filled.

Research and training on OU's Norman campus also experienced a record year as measured by the more than $15.5 million in grants and contracts expenditures during fiscal year 1979-80.

A significant contract awarded to the University was for the establishment of a National Center for Ground Water Research, a cooperative venture involving OU as the home site, Oklahoma State University, and Rice University. The Environmental Protection Agency funded the center to provide active research in water resources, to identify and characterize problems on the horizon and to focus national and international attention to the importance of groundwater.

Energy-related research also is widespread among academic departments and involves studies relating to coal, petroleum and wind power as well as coal liquefaction, biomass, and the new area of high-energy physics. OU entered the "next frontier after nuclear energy" when it approved the establishment of a high-energy physics laboratory in the department of physics and astronomy.

Physical growth on the Norman campus was occurring at a pace unprecedented in recent years. Almost $25 million in construction projects were in progress as well as several renovations of older facilities. A $12 million expansion of Bizzell Memorial Library was begun in mid-March, marking a major cooperative project between the state and the private sector.

Enrollment also has continued to grow on the Norman campus, a phenomenon that runs counter to the national trend. The fall 1979 semester registered 21,090 students, up 733 over the previous fall. The largest increase was in direct-from-high-school freshmen.

Since OU depends a great deal on the support of the state and its citizens, public service is an important function of the university. During fiscal year 1979-80, a number of cooperative endeavors benefited both. OU's College of Business Administration worked with the State Department of Energy to provide thermograms — aerial heat pictures of Oklahoma cities — that helped state residents to make energy-saving improvements in their homes and businesses. That college's Institute for Managerial Development also conducted numerous training programs for businesses in Oklahoma and nationally, and the Center for Economic and Management Research released findings of a survey concerning quality of life in Oklahoma.

Another significant event of 1979-80 was the sixth presentation of the $10,000 Neustadt International Prize for Literature. The prize, which completed its first decade, was awarded to Czech novelist Josef Skvorecky, a political exile from his native Czechoslovakia now residing in Canada.

Fiscal year 1979-80 was a year of growth in many areas — growth nurtured by the generosity of the state and supporters of the University; the inventiveness of faculty, students, and administrators in attracting research and promoting new programs; and the far-sightedness of OU's forefathers who established foundations of strength on which the Norman campus is building.

UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA HEALTH SCIENCES CENTER

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

With an enrollment of over 3,000 students, the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center continues to serve as the state's major institution for preparing physicians, dentists, pharmacists, nurses, public health specialists, biomedical researchers, and a variety of allied health personnel.

The 1979-80 HSC budget was $31.5 million, up $3.2 million over the previous year's. Consisting of $27.9 million in state-appropriated funds and $3.5 million in revolving fund income, the budget was the largest in HSC history.

Of the new money, 70 percent was budgeted for instructional programs among the six colleges on OU's Oklahoma City campus.

In the fall of 1980, the College of Pharmacy began the University's newest advanced degree program: the Ph.D. in pharmacy. This is the first time this degree has been offered in Oklahoma. The new program will offer eight specialty areas including medicinal chemistry, nuclear pharmacy, toxicology, and pharmaceutics. Other areas offered are pharmacokinetics/biopharmaceutics, pharmaceutical analysis, pharmacy management, and clinical pharmacy.

During 1979-80, there were about 100 research projects under way at the HSC. The variety of the research is evident from the following four examples:

The Tulsa Medical College received a $535,074 grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to establish a program to offer better, long-term care for ambulatory patients with chronic diseases.

The U.S. Department of Energy awarded the University $257,900 to implement energy conservation measures in the Biomedical Sciences Building. It is estimated that this will enable the HSC to save over $100,000 per year in energy costs.

Research in blood clotting, headed by Dr. Fletcher Taylor, was funded for another three years by a federal grant for $3 million. It was the largest awarded by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute and is an indication of the progress and potential of the project.

Another HSC research team received a $1 million grant to participate in a three-year national study designed to evaluate the effectiveness of three types of treatment for clinical depression. The team is headed by Dr. John Watkins, director of Oklahoma Memorial Hospital's (formerly University Hospital) Depression Treatment Program.

The HSC added another major building during the year with the completion and dedication in October of the 1,100 car parking garage. Also, a new animal facility consisting of two buildings of some 17,000 square feet was occupied in June.

OKLAHOMA GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

Norman, Oklahoma

For 72 years, the Oklahoma Geological Survey has studied the state's land, water, mineral and energy resources, and informed the public of its findings.

Energy studies again were an especially important OGS activity during 1979-80. The survey's petroleum geologists carried out research important to a state where 95 percent of the mineral industry's income originates from oil and gas activities.

"Enhanced oil recovery (EOR)," a promising method of bringing the region's abandoned oil fields back to life, was the focus of several projects. The Survey's studies centered on collecting information about regional reservoirs where use of sophisticated techniques may be feasible, and on determining appropriate EOR "schemes" for use in Oklahoma.

Coal is another mineral considered crucial to the nation's and state's energy development efforts. The Survey's coal-investigation division continued to study coal mining opportunities in the state's eastern fields for a series of county reports in progress.

As of June 31, 1980, 324 chemical analyses of Oklahoma coals had been completed by OGS geologists, and ultimately 1,000 such studies will be completed. The analyses, conducted in OGS labs, will prove valuable to the coal industry, government agencies, environmentalists and coal by-product users. Another major Survey coal project was the mapping of eastern Oklahoma's significant coal mining regions.

Some water investigation projects were related to coal studies, and coalfield hydrology work continued. Another major water project involved continuing the compilation of a series of hydrologic atlases for nine one-by-two-degree quadrangles in Oklahoma.

Non-fuel mineral evaluations included the continuing inventory of past and present non-coal surface mining in the state. Work also began on a study of all working mines in western Oklahoma. These types of data are submitted to the U.S. Bureau of Mines for its MILS data system.

Environmental geology is an important area of study within the Survey. Projects conducted by various OGS divisions, like coal and water analyses, hydrologic studies and mined-land inventories, have environmental applications as well.

Another environmental project proved to be interesting and perhaps, for most state residents, startling. Seismic studies carried out through the OGS-operated Oklahoma Geophysical Observatory near Tulsa have made Oklahomans aware that 30 to 60 earthquakes a year are monitored in the state at seismographic stations.

Seismic projects contribute to the Survey's efforts to determine the state's "earthquake potential." A major study, being conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Oklahoma's Nemaha Ridge, was in its fourth year of monitoring seismicity and tectonic relationships.

Perhaps the most unusual project undertaken by survey personnel during 1979-80, and perhaps one of its most unique studies ever, was an investigation of emission sites where mysterious "gas bubbles" appeared during the winter near the Woods County town of Freedom. The event, which captured the attention of the state's news media, was studied by OGS geologists who literally camped at the site for days.

Other functions of the Survey include publishing geologic information. In 1979-80, OGS released three bulletins, including a study of geology and mineral resources in Noble County. Eventually, it is planned that all 77 of Oklahoma's counties will be profiled. Also, a catalog of theses and dissertations filed since 1904 by geology and geophysics graduate students at the University of Oklahoma was issued, offering an index to stores of valuable information in OU's libraries.

UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA LAW CENTER
Norman, Oklahoma

Administrative changes, financial progress and activities of law faculty, students and alumni highlighted the 1979-80 school year at the OU College of Law.

After serving as dean of the college for four years, James Westbrook resigned at the end of the year.

The search for Westbrook's successor was reopened in June after the OU Regents and law faculty members could not reach a consensus on three finalists for the position. Barbara Lewis, associate professor of law, was appointed to serve as interim law dean.

Public support for the college was increased by 12.68 percent over the 1978-79 funding. Also, federal grants of $37,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare enabled the OU clinical legal education program to add an instructor, part-time secretary and second office located near the Cleveland County Courthouse.

College of Law faculty actively participated in publications, research and public service during the 1979-80 school year. Completing or working on textbooks and treatises were professors Fred Miller, consumer protection casebook; Joseph Rarick, supplement to a book on Oklahoma water rights and casebook concerning problems in allotting land to American Indians; Frank Elkouri, fourth edition textbook on arbitration; Leo Whinery, treatise on Oklahoma evidence law; and Daniel Gibbens, volume of Oklahoma criminal procedures. Professor Eugene Kuntz continues to update his multi-volume series on oil and gas law.

The Merrick Foundation Teaching Award for 1980 was presented to Professor Harold Young as the faculty member considered the most outstanding in helping students understand and appreciate the American free enterprise system.

For the second consecutive year, OU student teams won first and second place at the regional round of the National Appellate Advocacy Competition. Two other OU law students were among the top six of 21 teams participating in the regional round to the National Trial Competition. In addition, OU law students initiated a pilot practical law project at Mustang High School to teach students the basics of law and their rights.

College of Law alumni also contributed to the 1979-80 year. Members of the Class of 1927 collected $32,000 to erect a 7-foot bronze statue of Julien C. Monnet, founder and former dean of the law school. The memorial, which stands in front of the Law Center, was dedicated during the 32nd annual Law Day activities.

Law Day 1980 also was highlighted by an address by former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski. As part of the college's enrichment program, other scholars and professionals visited OU to speak about a constitutional convention, balancing the federal budget and body language for lawyers. Former U.S. Sen. Fred Harris addressed the 1980 law graduates at a special convocation during commencement.

The college's Continuing Legal Education program led 20 seminars, workshops and institutes attended by 786 attorneys and 494 law students. A total of 660 students were enrolled in 20 legal assistant program classes during 1979-80.

The college's entering class in 1979 was composed of 202 students, including 68 women and five minority students, who were selected from 624 applications of which 124 were women and 55 represented minorities.

The OU law school has been recommended for reaccreditation by an American Bar Association team that visited the college in March.

All accredited law schools are examined every seven years by the ABA.

OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY
PRESIDENT L. L. BOGER
Stillwater, Oklahoma

All programs on the Oklahoma State University campus that are subject to accreditation are fully accredited, with the sole exception of Veterinary Medicine which, with the construction of the Veterinary Teaching Hospital, is expected to be accredited in the near future.

The OSU residence hall food service was named tops in the nation for the second year in a row, following the naming of the OSU residence hall system as the best in the nation for the preceding 25-year period, a one-time national award.

Campus housing again was tight, but the university continued to meet its guarantee of providing space for all entering freshmen who desire housing.

A 12-member Task Force on International Studies and Programs was appointed. The objective is enhanced international programs and studies on campus and greater international awareness by the people of the state. It is assessing the human resources on campus that relate to international studies and programs, and is cataloguing existing faculty and administrative activities and structures that relate in these areas.

A university-wide system has been implemented whereby individuals have an opportunity to provide input into the evaluation of administrative superiors.

Energy conservation efforts on the Stillwater campus have resulted in savings of about $3.2 million over the past seven years, including savings (or "cost avoidance") of more than $800,000 the past fiscal year.

The first phase of a new financial accounting system became operational at the end of the fiscal year. Development and testing is proceeding.

Some office forms are being redesigned and streamlined and others eliminated in OSU's continuous fight against unnecessary paperwork.

Three major capital improvement projects were begun during the past fiscal year: Animal Sciences Building, Veterinary Teaching Hospital and campus central control and energy management system.

As of March, 1980, the Uniform Pay Plan for clerical and technical personnel was funded, and new recommended salary scales for A&P (administrative and professional) personnel also are in effect.

University Extension the past year continued to develop new ways to serve the nontraditional student, primarily the professional person. Extension courses were provided to 5,788 enrollees, and noncredit workshops, conferences and seminars were given for some 20,000 persons during the past fiscal year. In total, University Extension provided services to more than 120,000 persons during the past fiscal year.

University Placement Services had more than 25,000 jobs listed from business, industry and education. Placement made some 21,000 candidate referrals to employers and coordinated more than 1,400 employer campus interview schedules and 13,000 on-campus student interviews.

Oklahoma State had an enrollment of 22,003 on its Stillwater campus in the fall of 1979. This included 12,649 men and 9,354 women. Women made up 42.5 percent of the student population, compared with 41.4 percent in 1978.

Varsity athletics enjoyed a commendabble year in 1979-80, a year which saw women's varsity sports win Big Eight championships in softball and golf, the men's teams winning titles in golf and tennis, and the golf team capturing the national golf championship, the 35th NCAA title won by the Cowboys in six sports over the years.

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

Stillwater, Oklahoma

Construction of the new Veterinary Teaching Hospital was moving rapidly towards completion as the fiscal year ended. It is expected to be operational in January 1981.

The final shelled-in space for Special Medicine was being bid and equipment installation had commenced. The contractor was running very close to schedule and all parties concerned were pleased with the progress.

Following a visit by a team from the American Veterinary Association Council on Education in August 1979, a favorable progress report was received with recommendations for other improvements.

The number of faculty members with the rank of instructor or above is now 70. Eighteen faculty members are Diplomats of various Board specialties. Dr. J. Mack Oyler was appointed Associate Dean, and Dr. Louis Stratton, Director of the Teaching Hospital, both to be effective October 1.

The college faculty continues to be well represented on steering committees of national professional organizations. Dr. Eric Williams became the first recipient of the Oklahoma Veterinarian of the Year Award, established by the Oklahoma Veterinary Medical Association in 1978. Two faculty members represented the college at international veterinary meetings.

Several faculty members have been awarded fellowships to enable them to work and study with specialists in their field of interest for varying periods of time. The fellowships were made available by a grant from Sarkeys Foundation, Norman, Oklahoma. The subjects to be studied include care of the newborn, bone fracture repair, clinical pathology, heart diseases, radiology, foreign animal diseases which could threaten our livestock and diseases of warm-water fish.

Research grants from the USDA Science and Education Administration were received to study the growth and development in Ixodid ticks of the organism which causes anaplasmosis in cattle and also to study resistance mechanisms to intestinal diseases in pigs.

The students continue to exhibit leadership and academic excellence. Mary Gaughan, senior student, completed her term as secretary of the 6,000-member student American Veterinary Medical Association, which is the official student organization of the veterinary medical colleges in the United States and Canada.

The recently established organization of students interested in small animal practice and research at the college has been selected by the American Animal Hospital Association as the first official chapter in the nation.

Seventy students were admitted to the class of 1984. The class includes 24 women. The total enrollment for 1980-81 is 266, with 84 women and 18 minority students.

The College of Veterinary Medicine has prepared 13 seven-minute TV tapes on veterinary medicine in Oklahoma today, in collaboration with the Oklahoma Education Television Authority (OETA) and the OSU Educational Television services. This film series, under the title of The Oklahoma Veterinarian, will be presented weekly on OETA's four television stations immediately following each segment of James Herriot's All Creatures Great and Small, scheduled to commence on October 2.

THE OKLAHOMA AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

Stillwater, Oklahoma

Each time a calf of improved breeding takes its first step, or two blades of wheat push their way through the soil where only one grew before, mankind is reaping a dividend on a previous investment.

The Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station makes part of this investment, putting time, labor and talent into studies that will eventually result in more production, faster gain, reduced disease and a myriad of other goals sought through plant and animal research.

Oklahoma is diverse in its agriculture and its climate, soil conditions and topography. Sixteen outlying stations have been set up to help state producers overcome inherent challenges caused by this diversity. With each station located in a given area, studies can be aimed at local problems.

Counsel and guidance reaches OAES researchers as to immediate local needs through advisory committees made up of farmers, businessmen and others across the state, who have an interest in helping researchers identify problems. This guidance plays an all-important part in determining research direction.

With some 250 projects under way at any given time, OAES personnel are able to meet the expected needs of state agriculture, yet remain adaptable enough to handle emergencies.

When OAES weed scientists recently found a chemical that would control cheat, a weed in wheat stands, without harming the crop, they offered a potential to save Oklahoma wheat farmers more than $60 million annually.

A new ear tag now being marketed nationally was developed by OAES scientists working in entomology, animal science and veterinary medicine. One of these new tags in a cow's ear keeps it free of face flies and reduces other fly-pest aggravation for up to three months. A tag in each ear keeps ear ticks under near total control for most of a season.

Shipping fever costs U.S. cattlemen up to $3 billion annually. The OAES is squarely in the thick of this effort, approaching it from a hands-on standpoint at the ranch level and attacking it with basic research methods in the laboratory.

At least two new research tools have been developed so far in this work by OAES scientists: The ability to produce experimentally shipping fever in animals for test purposes and a new method of aerosol vaccination that gives lung protection and could lead to an effective injectable vaccine.

Most station scientists multiply their usefulness to Oklahoma taxpayers by doubling as teachers at OSU. They also spend much of their time in conferences, seminars, and conducting short courses throughout the state.

The OAES is more than a helpmate to farmers. It is part of a nationwide network of like research stations, working together, keeping aware of what others are doing. In this manner, greater achievements can be made with less investment, which inevitably pays dividends to all people.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

Stillwater, Oklahoma

Agriculture, Youth Programs, Home Economics, and Rural Development form the basis for Oklahoma State University's people-oriented Cooperative Extension Service.

Created in 1914 by the Smith-Lever Act as a part of the nation's system of Land-Grant Universities, the Extension Service of OSU has a proud history, a positive present and a promising future. A built-in flexibility of program planning, based on the needs of those it reaches, allows the Extension Service to change with the times, to be an effective educational arm of the OSU Division of Agriculture stretching far beyond the limits of the main campus into every county of the state.

Backed by a force of specialists housed within the various departments of agriculture and home economics on campus, a vanguard force of county, area and district personnel serve in close contact with the people of the state. Through public meetings, demonstrations and veritable libraries of up-to-date publications, field personnel make available to all citizens, without regard to race, creed, color or national origin, the latest research findings in their areas of responsibility.

One important on-campus function of the Extension Service is the management of various testing facilities, designed to improve the capabilities of individuals and, in doing so, the total economy of the state. Included in these are laboratories for testing soils, water and forage. Two testing centers, one for beef and one for swine, help determine superior breeding animals for state stockmen. A plant disease diagnostic laboratory serves not only commercial producers with many acres of crops, but homeowners with landscape problems as well.

Many of Extension's current programs are aimed at easing a problem faced by all citizens — short supplies and high costs of energy. "The Energy Event," an Eptension program designed to make more efficient use of energy in homes and on farms, is in its second successful year. Other current efforts in this area include:

— A residential energy-audit program developed by Extension agricultural engineers and used by the state's 26 Rural Electric Cooperatives, which helps homeowners determine the economics of additional energy-saving applications. This program is now being adopted by the state's major utility services and, within the next nine months, will be available to 800,000 Oklahoma homeowners.

— An emphasis program on the feasibility of on-farm production and use of fuel alcohol. Education meetings with audiences ranging from 10 to more than 700 persons have been conducted. At this time, a working alcohol still is being built on campus to be used as an on-hands tool to further educate interested Oklahomans.

— A continuing study and application of information relating to reducing field-tillage requirements, and thereby cut fuel expenses and lessen equipment wear, by chemical control of moisture-sapping weeds.

— A comprehensive effort involving Extension and Research personnel to determine and encourage the most efficient application of dwindling irrigation water supplies in the face of high fuel and equipment costs.

While many Extension programs are directed basically at rural and agricultural needs, the elements of home economics and youth programs cross the boundaries into every town and city in the state. The total Extension program, planned by and for the people of Oklahoma, effectively provides for a better life for all citizens and an improved total economy for the entire state.

OSU SCHOOL OF TECHNICAL TRAINING

Okmulgee, Oklahoma

Oklahoma State Tech, the Oklahoma State University School of Technical Training, is the largest residential vocational-technical campus in the nation. During the one-year report period, Tech experienced a slight enrollment increase as compared to the previous biennial report. Tech's three annual graduation exercises produced 920 young men and women who were eagerly sought after by business and industry throughout the state and nation. Business and industry representatives from several states regularly conduct on campus interviews because previous graduates have performed well and have been promoted to supervisory positions within their organizations.

The school's enrollment truly reflects a cross section of the nation with students enrolling from 77 Oklahoma counties, 34 other states, and 19 foreign countries. Tech's total enrollment exclusive of duplicates for the three-trimester academic year was 3,838.

The industrial-educational campus atmosphere continues in step with the needs of business and industry through the guidance and assistance of its industrial advisory committees. The faculty of 163 dedicated instructors possess an average of 11.92 years of teaching experience and 9.36 years of industrial experience. Oklahoma State Tech's 46 technical programs are constantly under evaluation by the advisory committees and faculty to ensure that they reflect current technology. Visits to industry during the non-instructional week between trimesters enable the faculty to remain current in their respective skill areas.

The past year saw many improvements in total campus development and continuing progress on projects initiated prior to this reporting period. Five parking lots were resurfaced; the Garden Residence One housing complex was completed and is accommodating 140 single students; the Food Trades department complex was reroofed, and the foyer of the State Room restaurant (formerly the Red Door) was remodeled to hold a larger number of guests waiting to be served in the foods training facility; and the complex housing data processing and general education classrooms received major roof repairs, as did the campus theater and small gas engine laboratory. Several restrooms were modified to meet handicap standards.

Oklahoma State Tech is serving the needs of the community through its Continuing Education evening program. During this reporting period, 46 courses were offered, serving 460 adults. Several of the courses were organized as a result of business and industry requesting specific courses for employees. Concurrent high school student enrollment had an increase over the previous year.

Oklahoma State Tech welcomed 3,502 visitors to the campus, representing prospective students and prospective employers.

Wayne W. Miller is serving his seventeenth year as Director of this branch and is also a Vice-President of Oklahoma State University.

OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY TECHNICAL INSTITUTE

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

Growth, innovation, introspection, assessment, planning, and evaluation marked the 1979-80 fiscal year at the OSU Technical Institute.

Again, enrollments increased to a new high of 2,426 students during the fall semester. With the construction of the new student center and its opening in March 1980, the Institute enrolled a younger group of day students than had previously attended. This new influx of students was attributed primarily to an increase in student services and facilities on an expanded college campus.

The highlight of the 1979-80 academic year was the visit by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools accreditation team in April. This visit resulted in continued accreditation at the Associate Degree level, with the next visit scheduled in ten years.

Two new greenhouses and a horticulture laboratory building were completed. Capital improvement funds were utilized to complete additional sidewalks, ramps, and parking areas to accommodate handicapped students.

Numerous community service projects were carried out. The nursing department conducted a blood pressure check for the public each month, and the institute continued to serve as a precinct voting location.

The Learning Skills Center was expanded into new facilities with the major areas of remedial education combined under the leadership of a director.

Short courses, workshops, and seminars increased three-fold over the previous year. One course regarding the handling of 'hostage taking' received a great deal of interest by the participants, as well as the print and electronic media.

As a result of extensive preparation and training of the faculty and staff, Management by Objectives (MBO) was initiated and carried out during this period. This management process has proven to be a valuable institutional tool for short and long range planning and plans are to continue the use of the process.

Receiving considerable attention during this period was the further refinement of internal governance to allow for a more democratic set of procedures within which the faculty, staff and administration can function. The various councils within the Institute have defined their areas of interest and concerns and are carrying out these activities in a responsible manner.

Advisory boards continue to be a vital part of the Institute. Before contemplating curriculum modification or major equipment purchases, departments utilize the advisory board members extensively in their deliberations.

Prospects for future growth and development continue to look bright for the Institute as a new decade begins.

CENTRAL STATE UNIVERSITY
PRESIDENT BILL J. LILLARD
Edmond, Oklahoma

Central State University, responsive to the higher education needs of the people of Oklahoma, has continued to develop and mature as a comprehensive liberal arts university.

The academic program was expanded to meet the needs of students in new and emerging fields of study. The State Regents for Higher Education approved, and Central State University implemented, two new master's degree programs, an M.S. in Home Economics — Professional Services, and an M.A. in Criminal Justice and Administration. The State Department of Education gave full approval for offering the Secondary Principal Standard Certificate Program.

The Chemistry-degree program was approved for certification by the American Chemical Society. Central State University received commendation from the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education for multiculture programming. In accordance with recommendations of the North Central Association and consistent with administration policy, the Council on Academic Affairs, the Graduate Council, and the Council on Teacher Education were reorganized.

During this period the Faculty Research Council was reorganized under the title of University Research Council and assumed an expanded mission of assisting faculty members in securing broader support in their research activities.

The establishment of a Distinguished-Scholar-in-Residence position and the attracting of a Rhodes Scholar to the faculty of Central State University provides one of the academic highlights in the entire history of this great university.

Improvement of faculty salaries has long been and will continue to be a high-priority item. This year's average faculty salary is highest among the regional universities and is challenging the lead in salaries in the entire state system of higher education. Significant increases in faculty and staff health and life insurance benefits were approved. Prudent management policies regarding fiscal matters and work-load assignments have made these salary and benefit increases possible for a deserving and hard-working faculty.

Academic excellence has long been stressed and recognized at Central State University. This year special note must be made of the selection of a Central State University student as the alternate for the 1980 Harry S. Truman Scholarship for the state of Oklahoma. Several years of renewed emphasis to the athletic program has reaped rewards as Central State University went to the NAIA National Championship Football game and finished sixth in the NAIA All-Sports standings for 1979-80. Three professional staff members were given special recognition by the 37th Oklahoma Legislature. Another staff member was invited by the Ministry of Education, Taipei, Taiwan, to review their educational institutions.

The top priorities in capital improvement, paving of parking lots, lighting, and campus beautification were continued. The Talkback TV Annex and the renovation project for Mitchell Hall are being finalized. The initial planning and funding for a major renovation project for Howell Hall was presented and approved. The Campus Security operation was upgraded and joined the Oklahoma Law Enforcement Telecommunications System.

Utility rates and the energy crisis continue to be sources for concern and commitment for future action. A matching grant from the U.S. Department of Energy totaling just over a quarter-million dollars was awarded to install an Automated Energy Management System.

Central State University continues to change in breadth and depth from its historical founding to a mature multi-purpose urban institution of higher education and upholds a commitment to serve the people of Oklahoma.

EAST CENTRAL OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT STANLEY P. WAGNER

Ada, Oklahoma

During the year 1979-80 East Central University continued its expansion in numbers of students enrolled and housed. The enrollment for 1979 was 3,882, a nine percent increase over the previous year. The Chancellor's study for higher education enrollments listed East Central as expanding 31.5% from 1974 to 1979. This was the largest percentage of expansion for all four year universities in the State of Oklahoma for that same period. The housing of students showed an excess of students over facilities available.

During the year considerable building and remodeling took place on the campus. The Elvan George Athletic Center was completed and available for the Fall of 1980. The Administration Building was remodeled. A new Band Building was also constructed and available for the Fall of 1980. The parking lots on the campus were resurfaced and parking was expanded.

Academically East Central went through a reorganization of administration to draw departments into larger and more equal units. The division system was installed, dividing the University into ten divisions. This approach was expected to coordinate smaller departments in terms of such administrative matters as budgeting, especially travel and equipment. Also it was expected to provide a better communication of general administrative procedure.

The East Central athletic teams received recognition during the year. The football team won the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference Championship for the second year in a row. The girls tennis team also won the State Championship in the small college bracket.

East Central has already been recognized as a leader in the state in dealing with the physically handicapped. During 1979-80 it further developed its programs by purchasing of new equipment to assist the blind, the wheelchair bound, and the hard of hearing. The most expensive item was a 1980 van with a hydraulic lift. The van cost $20,000.00, but makes it possible and much more convenient to transport wheelchair-bound students. Also the drafting room was redesigned to make it fully accessible to the physically handicapped.

NORTHEASTERN OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT W. ROGER WEBB

Tahlequah, Oklahoma

Last year there was an awakening of spirit and commitment at Northeastern Oklahoma State University. This year that revitalization provided the impetus for a variety of new program and planning activities which have enhanced the quality of the educational experience at this university.

Approval, by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education, of two new undergraduate degree programs reflects confidence in our faculty and recognition of the needs for graduates in these disciplines. The Bachelor of Science in Computer Science and Bachelor of Arts in Social Work are two more threads adding even more richness to the educational fabric of this institution. The demand for trained professionals in these fields will grow with increasing rapidity in the coming decade. These new offerings will help assure Northeastern's continuing presence in the forefront of service to its students and the broader constituency of this region.

Some measurable areas of success included a 4 percent increase in total enrollment and a 24 percent increase in new freshmen. These were the rewards of a well-organized and executed recruitment program. Most of this recruiting was conducted through the voluntary efforts of dedicated faculty and staff. This participation has created a widespread feeling that all parts of our campus have shared in this success. Equally satisfying was the 34.5 percent increase in residence hall occupancy. Extensive improvements in programming, staffing and repair of the residence halls were vital in assuring this accomplishment.

The Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education also approved capital improvement projects which permitted needed renovation in the Industrial Arts Building, the Science Building, the Fine Arts Auditorium, and the Administration Building. In addition to upgrading and renovating these facilties, handicapped access aids were also installed. The capital improvement projects also included a new parking lot and landscaping to replace an unsightly drainage canal. Finally, among the Regents-approved capital improvement projects was a Gazebo built between Seminary Hall and the John Vaughan Library in the heart of the campus. The Gazebo served as a focal point for activities during the week-long spring festival, Renaissance '80. For eight days in April Northeastern hosted workshops, concerts, speakers, banquets, seminars, recitals, open houses, exhibits, movies, debates, multi-media presentations and athletic events. Scholars, journalists and entertainers of national renown brought myriad new intellectual and entertainment experiences to our campus. This showcase, featuring faculty and student achievements, brought more than 30,000 people to the campus. It was an event unparalleled in our history. The benefits for both the university and our guests were mutual.

Excellence in many academic programs already exists at Northeastern. Excellence, however, is a dynamic quality, ever changing, always requiring more effort, further refinement. One of the ways Northeastern meets this challenge is by attracting outstanding students. With the support and assistance of the NSU Educational Foundation more than 40 students are now enrolled with President's Leadership Class scholarships. These young men and women form the nucleus of quality student scholarship on the campus. The university is fortunate to have the continuing assistance of friends, both corporate and private, who share this commitment to expanding programs of excellence at Northeastern. With this help and our own dedication, Northeastern faces a prospect of continued achievement in the future.

NORTHWESTERN OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT JOE J. STRUCKLE

Alva, Oklahoma

The 1979-80 school year was one of the best at Northwestern in a number of years. The enrollment increased to 2,160, which represents an approximate eight percent increased enrollment in head count and full-time-equivalent students.

As of last year, Northwestern offers a new bachelor's degree program in Computer Science and master's degrees in both School Psychometry and Education for the Gifted and Talented. Student participation in these programs shows a great deal of promise.

Herod Hall auditorium went through extensive remodeling and comprises one of the best auditoriums in northwest Oklahoma. This was made possible through funds for Phase I of the Capital Improvement Program allocated by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education. The recreation facility, which was financed with a combination of private, federal, state, and city funds, is virtually complete.

As in previous years, the scholarship program was a great success. Northwestern continues to draw outstanding students from the state of Oklahoma.

SOUTHEASTERN OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT LEON HIBBS

Durant, Oklahoma

In the fall semester of 1979, Southeastern had a total collegiate enrollment of 4,230 students. Of this number, 907 were first-time freshmen. The total student credit hour enrollment for the 1979 fall semester was 46,187.

The full-time teaching faculty remained at approximately the same number in 1979-80 as the previous year, and the purposes and functions continued to be mission-oriented, seeking to serve the students and community.

Two new programs, Speech Pathology and Vocational Home Economics, and several new courses were approved by the Curriculum Committee and the Academic Council for recommendation to the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education.

General education requirements were revised to include a greater concentration in communications and composition. A writing laboratory in English for one-on-one assistance in composition was developed and is open each afternoon.

The graduate program was given greater emphasis by the naming of a Graduate Dean.

Two new divisions were established during the past school year, the Division of Mathematical Sciences which includes the departments of Mathematics and Computing Science, and the Division of Aerospace which includes the departments of Aerospace and Safety and Safety Education. In addition, new departments in Electronics Technology and Metals Technology were established.

A new power technology building was occupied, and the Power Mechanics program was expanded by the addition of five new courses.

Fifteen Parsons Scholars, which were selected in April of 1979, completed their first year at Southeastern. Selection is made on the basis of scholastic ability and achievement.

The Placement Service, in cooperation with the Teacher Education Department, held its first Teacher Placement Day in April of 1980 with 27 different school systems participating and a total of 378 student interviews held.

The department of Physical Education and Recreation was expanded to include a unique Equestrian Option in the Recreational Program. Several athletic championships were attained during the past school year. They included national rodeo championships by both teams, men and women, and men's conference championships in basketball, baseball, golf, tennis, and track. The women's basketball team won second in the southwest region of the AIAW and played in the women's national tournament. The baseball team won district and area championships and played in the NAIA College World Series.

A new computer system for the Controller's Office was put into use during the past year.

It should also be noted that a concentrated effort to upgrade maintenance campus-wide was effected with the 1979-80 school year.

SOUTHWESTERN OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT LEONARD CAMPBELL

Weatherford, Oklahoma

While institutions of higher learning such as Southwestern Oklahoma State University constantly strive to serve the educational needs and requisites of Oklahoma's citizens, it is not always easy to determine just how well they are performing.

Southwestern's programs of study appear to be among the best, because graduates consistently progress in their chosen fields of endeavor. Evaluations conducted by nationally prominent professional educators indicate that the university is keeping pace.

Two years ago the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education found that Southwestern had "no major weaknesses." Last November, the American Home Economics Association Council for Professional Development granted another five-year accreditation to the Home Economics Department programs while commending the university for "continued quality education in the field of home economics."

The American Chemical Society once again certified, without reservation, that the chemistry department meets establishment standards for undergraduate professional education, making more prestigious a chemistry degree from Southwestern.

"Accreditation with qualifications" was awarded to the medical records administration program by the American Medical Records Association, with the principal fault found being the higher-than-desired student/faculty ratio. Steps have been taken to remedy this situation.

A major objective of the School of Education was achieved in the spring when the Professional Standards Board approved the University's Administrator Standard Certificate program for secondary principals.

The entire campus has been involved for months in activities leading to the North Central Association visitation next spring. Committees of faculty members and administrators are working to complete the self-study that must be sent early next year to the North Central accreditation team.

The National League of Nursing has finalized plans to send an accreditation team to examine the Division of Nursing in the School of Health Sciences. Accreditation of the nursing degree was renewed for one year last spring by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education.

Enrollment for the fall of 1979 reached 4,718 head count, with 4,208 full-time equivalent.

A total of 949 degrees was awarded in the summer 1979 and spring 1980 convocation exercises. By declining numbers, these included: Bachelor of Science, 219; Bachelor of Science in Education, 209; Master of Education, 201; Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy, 148; Bachelor of Arts, 79; Bachelor of Arts in Education, 36; Bachelor of Science in Nursing, 20; Bachelor of Music Education, 15; Master of Business Administration, 12; Master of Science in Applied Psychology, 6; Bachelor of Arts in Music, 4.

CAMERON UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT DON C. DAVIS

Lawton, Oklahoma

Continued academic and athletic success, new educational programs and facilities, and a change of administrative leadership highlighted the 1979-80 school year at Cameron University.

Of the 4,712 students who enrolled at Cameron in the fall, many achieved state and national recognition before year's end. One placed first as a percussionist in the National Music Teachers' National Concerto Competition; another earned the Gold Medal for the best paper written in the Oklahoma Certified Public Accountant's examination.

Works of 11 Oklahoma students were selected for the 1980 Student Graphics portion of the State Art Collection. Five of the 11 artists represented were from Cameron.

Coach Lonnie Nichols led the Aggie Men's Basketball Team to an NAIA national championship, and Tony Allison coached the Cameron Forensics Team to a national championship.

Dedication ceremonies were held in June for the Louise D. McMahon Fine Arts Complex, a $4.8 million center which houses the music, speech, drama and arts programs of the university. The theatre and outside amphitheater have already become popular centers for fine arts events for southwest Oklahoma.

Following a record appropriation by the Oklahoma Legislature last spring, the State Regents for Higher Education approved the addition of an agriculture education program at Cameron. The program will educate prospective high school vocational agriculture teachers and was developed in response to shortages of qualified agriculture teachers.

The agriculture education program will be housed in a new $546,000 complex to be constructed on the western portion of the campus. The facility will feature separate animal and plant science instructional areas, a show arena and animal pens. It will be funded entirely by a grant from the McMahon Foundation.

Renovation of Nance-Boyer Hall, the core academic building at Cameron, was begun during the year and should be completed before the 1981 spring semester.

Eight tennis courts were completed in time for the spring season. The facilities serve both the campus and general public.

Dr. Don Owen stepped down last spring as president of the university, a post he had held for 11 years. He was succeeded by Don Davis, a practicing attorney in Lawton and former member of the Oklahoma House of Representatives.

LANGSTON UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT ERNEST L. HOLLOWAY

Langston, Oklahoma

Langston University adopted the theme "Strength Through Unity While on the Threshold of Change" for the 1979-80 academic year. This theme reflected Langston's concerted effort to bring all of our many publics and programs together in a unified approach to better prepare our students to meet the challenges of the eighties.

Foremost among the changes proposed and adopted during the 1979-80 year was the addition of new baccalaureate degree programs. One of these programs, Gerontology, is the only one of its kind in Oklahoma.

The program in Gerontology is designed to provide opportunities for students to acquire knowledge about the science of aging and the problems associated with the aged, long-term care facilities, and planning and managing public service programs related to the older population.

Langston University was also approved to offer the B.S. degree in Nursing during the past year and is moving to implement this professional program. Theory courses in Nursing will be taught on the main campus and in the Urban Center in Tulsa. Arrangements have been made with several hospitals for the clinical experience.

Additional degree programs approved include Computer Science, Psychology, Liberal Education, and Nutrition and Dietetics.

Langston University's enrollment continued its upward trend. The 1979 Fall Semester head count showed a net increase of 18% over the head count for the 1978 Fall Semester. The head count for the 1980 Spring Semester was 6.5 percent greater than the same semester in 1979.

Major renovations and improvements in the physical plant were initiated or completed during the fiscal year. The I. W. Young Auditorium, with a seating capacity of approximately 1,100, was equipped with new seats, accoustical panels, and central heating and air conditioning at a cost of 369,000. Two former residence halls, University Women and University Men, were also included in the physical plant improvements. The University Men has been converted into a modern science laboratory through a grant from the Department of Agriculture for the Cooperative State Research (1890 Program) projects. The University Women is being converted to a complex to house Cooperative Extension (another 1890 program) and several of the institutional support programs.

One of the high points of the year was the appointment and subsequent inauguration of Dr. Ernest L. Holloway as the fourteenth President of Langston University. Dr. Holloway, a native of Boley, Oklahoma, and a graduate of Langston University, is an experienced educator and administrator having served as a public school teacher and principal prior to joining the staff of Langston University. During his tenure at Langston he has served in a number of administrative positions and is a professor of education.

Langston University was the recipient of several grants from private foundations during the 1979-80 year. One of these, received from the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation, is providing $200,000 over a three-year period to assist the University in the area of "Image Building and Fund Raising."

The mission of Langston University was expanded in the 1978-79 academic year to include an "Urban Mission." The Tulsa Urban Center, established in the Spring Semester of 1979, had a very successful year. The average enrollment during the Center's first full year of operation exceeded 200 students, and the Center is gaining wide acceptance in the Tulsa community.

Langston's commitment to excellence and relevance in all of its programs continues at a high level. The positive changes occurring during this academic year — new academic programs, increased enrollment, improved facilities, and increased funding — portend a bright future for Langston University.

OKLAHOMA PANHANDLE STATE UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT THOMAS L. PALMER

Goodwell, Oklahoma

Panhandle State University since its creation by the state legislature in 1909 has provided leadership in higher education for the high plains area in the agricultural and mechanical arts. The university over the years has diversified to provide a broad educational experience in the liberal arts and general education as well as specialization in diverse fields ranging from the fine arts and humanities to teacher education, business administration, and science.

The faculty of Panhandle State University is dedicated and well trained. Twenty-one have doctor's degrees (including five part-time professors). The master's degree is the minimum entry level into regular faculty status. The faculty is currently studying ways to improve its performance by way of a faculty development program.

The administration and faculty are sensitive to student longings and curricular needs. This year a Vocational Agricultural Education program was inaugurated to provide public schools with vocational agriculture teachers. The program started with 18 students.

Intercollegiate athletics provide, through competitive teams in football, basketball and track, a focal point for student morale. Coupled with significant vocal and instrumental music groups and dramatic presentations, the university provides for the delicate mix between cultural and athletic events as well as the pursuit of academic excellence.

The Marvin E. McKee Library is the center of academic life on campus. Well equipped and growing, its collection includes 80,701 volumes and 440 magazines, journals and newspapers.

The university confers three baccalaureate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Music Education. In May, 1980, 135 baccalaureate degrees were awarded. The 24 major fields graduating students included: Accounting 10; Agribusiness 2; Agronomy 4; Animal Science 7; Biology 2; Business Administration 16; Business Education 4; Chemistry 2; Elementary Education 23; English 4; Health and Physical Education 21; Recreation 2; Home Economics 6; Industrial Arts 4; Mathematics 2; Medical Technology 2; Music Education 2; Music 1; Natural Sciences 1; Psychology 6; Secretarial Science 1; Social Science 4; Speech 2; and Technology 2. The Military Science Department awarded a commission as second lieutenant to one of its graduates.

Panhandle State University is part of the Oklahoma State System of Higher Education coordinated by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education. Besides accreditation by the State Regents, the university is regionally accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (1985) and by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (1981). The teacher education program is also fully accredited by the Oklahoma State Department of Education.

Financial Aid for students from university based programs amounted to $52,429 during 1979-80. This included $31,450 in National Direct Student Loans; $9,900 in the Supplementary Education Opportunity Grants and $11,079 in the Work Study Program. There were 363 recipients of Basic Educational Opportunity Grants with a total value of $281,378. Institutional scholarships, loans, fee waivers, and student labor amounted to more than $372,000. Students also received aid from the Panhandle State Foundation, a private fund-raising arm of the university. Total amount awarded in this program was $21,404.10.

A giant step forward occurred in the sumer of 1980 when the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education allocated $350,000 in capital improvement funds for the planning and construction of a new Meats Laboratory. The architect has been selected, and the contracts will be awarded by February, 1981. The university continues to have critical capital improvement needs in the area of renovation and refurbishing of some older buildings to bring them up to modern day standards, including modifications to assist the handicapped in gaining access to all buildings. The heating and air-conditioning facilities need also updating.

Panhandle State University is justifiably proud of the achievements of the past and looks forward expectantly to contributing to the needs of Oklahoma higher education in the great high plains area of the state during the decade of the eighties.

UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE AND ARTS OF OKLAHOMA

PRESIDENT ROY TROUTT

Chickasha, Oklahoma

The University of Science and Arts of Oklahoma continues to attract academically talented students. Many of the entering students were ranked in the upper 10 percent of their high school graduating class. These and other students of high academic achievements are greatly improving the quality of the student body.

Strong community support is being received through the USAO Foundation. This organization provides scholarships which assist in attracting quality students. Gifts from the community are providing funds for the renovation of the pipe organ in the auditorium. Other substantial gifts will provide for the addition of an art annex for USAO's growing art program and for other services not provided through state funding.

Increased state appropriations have enabled the university to expand and improve academic programs and provide additional services for students. The support of the State Legislature and State Regents in this regard is greatly appreciated.

Through the State Regents' capital improvement program, the university was able to renovate the building housing the Science and Mathematics Department and the Speech and Hearing Therapy Department. The university has used its oil royalty funds to replace roofs of the library and Gary Hall and make other physical plant improvements.

A new data processing system for academic and administrative services has been installed. This will improve the information system and expand the curriculum offerings in this area.

USAO has continued to expand its library services for both students and faculty. Some 3,236 titles were added to the holdings. In addition, 102 reels of microfilm, 400 volumes of journals on microfiche, 201 records, and 133 tape cassettes along with filmstrip and slide programs were added.

USAO's greatest assets are its faculty and students. They are working to advance the university in fulfilling its mission in The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education. Faculty and students are fully involved in governmental and administrative affairs of USAO through participation in standing committees and their own governance system.

The university's evening college program continues to attract adults who are working toward a degree, increasing skills and learning for enjoyment. Extension classes in surrounding communities have been well received.

USAO will always strive to utilize its resources in the most effective way to serve the community and state. With the continuing support of all associated with the institution, the university is confident of further progress.

THE OKLAHOMA COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE AND SURGERY

PRESDENT JOHN BARSON

Tulsa, Oklahoma

During 1979-80, The Oklahoma College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery made significant improvements in the instructional program and advanced several newer aspects of institutional development. Among these developments was the formal organization of previously authorized functions in research, public service, and continuing education. This work was accomplished while maintaining excellence in the teaching program.

OCOMS students once again ranked well above the national average on standard examinations conducted during 1980 by the National Board of Osteopathic Examiners. Also among the academic accomplishments was the percentage of women in the seventh entering class, increasing to 30% from 16% in the previous year. Affiliation of new community-based clinical facilities for rotation of senior students increased the total off-campus teaching sites to 17. The college also significantly contributed to the growth of osteopathic internship training in Oklahoma by obtaining federal grants for Family Medicine Training.

College organization of authorized research activities involved the establishment of four centers to focus biomedical research on the delivery of health care and preventive medicine. These four units are: The Center for Behavioral Medicine, The Center for Molecular Medicine, The Center for Manipulative Medicine, and The Center for Surgical Medicine. Behavioral medicine research achievements to date have resulted in the citation of OCOMS as one of the 12 important centers for behavioral research by the national Society for Behavioral Medicine.

Responding to requests from recent graduates and community practitioners for continuing medical education, the college obtained approval of the American Osteopathic Association to serve as an authorized sponsor of Category 1-A continuing esucation programs.

In November, 1980, construction will be completed on the Finis W. Smith Teaching Clinic located at 2345 Southwest Boulevard in west Tulsa. This new teaching clinic will better support clinical instruction at the college and provide a measure of aid to persons living in a severe physician-shortage area.

Construction is also nearing completion on the Eastern Division Office of the Chief Medical Examiner for the state of Oklahoma. This new facility will share college utility services and provide great potential for enriching the college's teaching and research programs through collaborative activities.

On April 1, 1980, Governor George Nigh signed Senate Bill 539 creating a new Board of Regents to assume governance of the college. The Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education, who have governed the college and guided its development since establishment by Senate Bill 461 in 1972, will transfer governance authority on January 5, 1981.

CARL ALBERT JUNIOR COLLEGE
PRESIDENT JOE E. WHITE
Poteau, Oklahoma

Throughout fiscal 1979-80, Carl Albert Junior College prepared to meet the challenges of the 1980's.

Since energy promises to be a major consideration in the 80's, CAJC prepared to meet that challenge through conservation on campus and conservation education.

On-campus conservation measures included following federal guidelines for thermostat settings, scheduling in summer to allow students to carry a full academic load while attending classes only two or three days per week, cancelling Friday evening classes to allow utilities to be turned off from 4 p.m. Fridays until Monday mornings and establishing a car pool service.

Energy conservation classes and seminars included a winterization seminar in November, 1979, a solar collectors' class offering through the Community Service Program and three forums entitled "Energy and the Way We Live" offered in the spring in conjunction with the Oklahoma Humanities Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

To accommodate and promote growth, the CAJC Development Foundation was established with three goals for 1980-1985: To build a resident campus, to build an endowment fund for scholarships and to build a program for academic enrichment. Funds for these projects are being solicited from the private sector. A 22-member board of trustees was selected and met twice during the year. Former Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, Carl Albert, is honorary chairman of the foundation.

The 1979-80 academic year also was marked by several other accomplishments. CAJC's Technical-Occupational Building was completed and summer classes were scheduled, including electronics, drafting, automobile service management, and heating and air conditioning. Poteau's newest and largest industries were consulted to upgrade technical-occupational programs.

A consultant worked with CAJC personnel to plan a nursing program to be requested in the 1980-81 budget year. A computer science program was approved, and maximum enrollment was achieved in the first data processing classes offered.

Funds were allocated to double the size of the CAJC library holdings which increased from 8,850 to 9,626 in audio-visual materials and from 12,503 to 13,829 in print materials.

Two new federal programs also were begun in 1979-80: Upward Bound with a $153,255 budget and Cooperative Education with a $50,851 budget.

CAJC's enrollment growth continued through the year. Full-time-equivalent enrollment improved in both fall and spring semesters to peak at an all-time high of 954 in the spring.

Activities for students also increased as the drama and music programs provided a second year of quality productions in the Hamilton Fine Arts and Communications Building. The Student Senate sponsored the first Miss CAJC Pageant in which 13 women students competed for the honor of representing CAJC in the Miss Oklahoma Pageant. Movies, dances, parades and socials completed the list of activities.

The activities and energy of CAJC faculty, staff and students have prepared CAJC for 1980-81 and continue to insure CAJC will meet the challenges of the 80's.

CLAREMORE JUNIOR COLLEGE

PRESIDENT RICHARD H. MOSIER

Claremore, Oklahoma

For the college at Claremore, 1979-80 was a year of change and retrenchment. Applications for admission from international students reached an all time high. Approximately 50 percent of those applying were accepted for enrollment as the college established new criteria to determine the number that could be adequately served. During the year, students from more than 25 countries were enrolled.

The renovation of Preparatory Hall was completed, and the functions of the business office, the registrar, student financial aids, admissions, guidance and counseling were moved into adequate facilities for the first time in the history of the college.

In honor of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Will Rogers, the college joined the state and the nation in celebration. Directed and produced by members of the college staff, an original stage play written by T. Y. Hill, Will Rogers at Home, opened for its inaugural season in the new Will Rogers Memorial Amphitheatre on the college campus.

To better serve the special needs of an increasingly diverse student body, a Learning Resource Center and instructional programs in Computer Science were established utilizing grants from federal agencies for start-up costs. Through funding from the same sources, the college developed a program of special services for students with learning difficulties under the direction of Dr. Don Basse.

The college staff completed an extensive self-study in preparation for a visitation and evaluation by the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges in April. As a result of that visit and evaluation, the college was commended, and full accreditation was extended.

Dr. Raymond Wamsley joined the staff as the Vice-President for Teaching in the late spring. With past experience as a state coordinator for two-year colleges in Kentucky and Wyoming and as a dean of instruction and president of a two-year college, he brought to the campus a level of knowledge and commitment necessary to establish new strength as the college entered the decade of the 80's.

At year's end the critical need for extensive campus renovation became more and more apparant.

CONNORS STATE COLLEGE

PRESIDENT CARL O. WESTBROOK

Warner, Oklahoma

During the 1979-80 school year, considerable effort was exerted by the faculty, staff, and administration on a self-study in preparation for a North Central reaccreditation study. A result of this study, combined with a site visit by a North Central team, was the awarding of accreditation with no conditions for ten years.

With respect to capital improvements, several projects should be noted. All major buildings were cleaned and sealed, with three of the four receiving insulating windows and doors for energy conservation. An old 1936, WPA-constructed stone building was renovated and remodeled providing low-cost space for the college and state. Renovation of existing structures, along with the need for new facilities, highlights the Capital Improvements Program at the college.

Energy continues to play a major role in the college's operation. A grant was received from the U.S. Department of Energy to study an insulation composed of cheap available materials. Prospects for the continuation of this grant for 1980-81 are very good.

The enrollment continued to show a moderate increase indicating the stability and growth of the college. The extension program in Muskogee continued, serving a large demand of that city, and no decline is seen in need with respect to quantity and quality education in this rapidly growing area. The college continues to study its curriculum and programs. The major emphasis was placed upon the strengthening and developing of existing programs of study while initiating one new program, Agriculture Equine Technology. This new program showed much strength and viability in its initial stages and promises to be a unique program respective of the needs of the equine industry in Oklahoma and neighboring states.

During the 1979-80 year, the Connors Development Foundation, Inc., was formed, with 24 prominent people of the region serving as trustees. All indications are that this will be a beneficial edeavor for the college and its students.

The college continues to remain in a healthy condition with respect to its bond indenture accounts. The year was ended with all accounts in a solvent condition.

Connors State College will continue its educational service under the coordination of the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education and governance of the Board of Regents for Oklahoma A&M Colleges to the people of Oklahoma, and we look forward to continued joint efforts in serving the state in our seventy-third year as a public institution of higher education.

EASTERN OKLAHOMA STATE COLLEGE

PRESIDENT JAMES M. MILLER

Wilburton, Oklahoma

During the 1979-80 school year, Eastern Oklahoma State College experienced a stable enrollment with a continued strength in adult enrollment in evening classes.

Eastern continues to participate, along with Carl Albert Junior College and Southeastern Oklahoma State University, in providing instruction at the E. T. Dunlap Higher Education Center in McCurtain County. Eastern has the responsibility for the Child Development program at the center.

Eastern has continued to teach courses in Emergency Medical Technology, in response to community requests, to individuals associated with hospitals and ambulance services.

Eastern was again approved to teach extension classes in Talihina and McAlester in response to requests from those communities.

Revised courses and curricula were approved in many areas, especially in Electrical Engineering Technology; Health, Physical Education, and Recreation (HPER); Mathematics; Marketing; and Psychology.

Average faculty salaries for nine and ten-month faculty increased to $16,700 in 1979-80.

Construction was completed on the new addition to the Physical Education facility. Improvements to the Meat Science Lab were made, and new equipment for Secretarial Science and Physical Sciences were purchased. Enrollment using CRTs and the Hewlitt-Packard computer was again improved.

Eastern Oklahoma State College continues to be a service institution for eastern Oklahoma.

EL RENO JUNIOR COLLEGE

PRESIDENT BILL S. COLE

El Reno, Oklahoma

Curriculum revision is continuous at El Reno Junior College as efforts are made to meet the changing needs of our citizenry. The fall semester, 1979, marked the beginning of an Associate Degree Nursing Program on the ERJC campus. A program director and two full-time nursing instructors were employed to implement this program.

Two new programs were approved by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education for possible implementation in the fall, 1980, (Computer Science Technology and Horticulture & Landscaping Technology). The Fine Arts Program was enhanced through the return of Drama as a part of the regular curriculum after several years of absence. New interest was created through the prospect of an on-campus theater contained in the new Community Culture and Education Center now under construction.

In 1979-80, the college continued to improve its Community Service Program. In September, 1979, ERJC obtained a grant from the Areawide Agency on Aging to conduct a "Volunteer Services Program." A coordinator was employed in January, 1980. The program has provided an outreach vehicle which serves primarily senior citizens by training volunteers through workshops and seminars.

Student activities also continue to expand at ERJC. One area receiving much attention this year was the approval of a baseball team by the ERJC Board of Regents in January, 1980. The college also developed plans for initiating a livestock judging team for 1980-81.

During this reporting period a major change occurred in the record keeping system with the purchase and installation of a Digital PDP/11 Computer System designed to serve both administrative and instructional purposes.

Construction activity on the ERJC campus stirred tremendous excitement throughout the entire year. Phase I of the Physical Education Center was occupied in October, 1979. Contracts were signed to begin construction of a 16,000-square-feet Learning Resources Center in January, 1980, and in March, construction of the Community Culture and Education Center began.

Funding for the Learning Resources Center was provided through an allocation of $652,000 from the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education. The Community Culture and Education Center was funded by $235,000 from the Ozarks Regional Commission and $171,000 raised locally.

Another nearby project, the Baptist Student Union, was begun in June, 1980. This facility is located adjacent to the campus and will contain 2,400 square feet at a cost of approximately $70,000. These funds were provided by the Baptist Association. And finally, initial planning was begun for a new Occupational and Technical Education Building with construction anticipated to begin in fall, 1980.

MURRAY STATE COLLEGE

PRESIDENT CLYDE R. KINDELL

Tishomingo, Oklahoma

The major emphasis of Murray State College during 1979-80 has been the continued development of the institution into a more comprehensive two-year college commensurate with the assigned functions prescribed by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education:

To provide a comprehensive two-year post-secondary educational program to serve the needs of residents of the South Central Oklahoma counties of Atoka, Bryan, Carter, Coal, Garvin, Johnston, Love, Marshall, Murray, and Pontotoc; to provide an educational program which gives predominant emphasis to technical and occupational education; to provide a program of general education which will enable students to develop the attitudes, knowledge, qualities, and skills necessary for them to be effective as a person, a family member, and a citizen; to provide educational programs of two years or less for students who plan to transfer into baccalaureate and professional programs at senior colleges and universities; to provide a program of education for youth and adults whose previous educational experiences have not prepared them for achievement at the collegiate level; to provide guidance and counseling services for all students; to provide community services to improve the cultural, economic, and social environment of the area served by the college.

During 1979-80, the College granted its first Veterinary Technology class and began renovation of the old college barn to facilitate the instructional activities. With federal funds, the Senior Citizen Center was upgraded to improve that segment of community services. With the financial assistance of the Chickasaw tribe, a memorial garden in honor of the Chickasaw Nation was started. A Gunsmithing Program was instituted, and the first-year class was completed. A Baseball Building constructed primarily with Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service funds is nearing completion. The acquisition proceedings to obtain an addition of approximately 131 acres to the campus were initiated. The college continued to provide instructional support to the Ardmore Higher Education Center.

During 1980-81, major emphasis will be placed on expanding educational services in instituting a Horse Management and Training Program and providing additional counseling services, especially in career selection. The renovation of the old college barn is to be completed. The completion of the Baseball Building is contemplated. The acquisition of the additional land is anticipated, and the renovation of the physical education building with capital improvement funds is to be accomplished.

With the employment of a Student Activities Coordinator, continued emphasis will be given to improving the living environment of students residing on campus.

NORTHERN OKLAHOMA COLLEGE

PRESIDENT EDWIN E. VINEYARD

Tonkawa, Oklahoma

This year was not a banner year for the institution, but was a rather normal one. There were many areas of achievement and problems in a few sectors. A slight decrease in the number of full-time students is of some concern, but this improved certain instructional situations and was counterbalanced to some extent by overflowing dormitories. Instructional performance by faculty was at a high quality level matched by equally strong morale. The community services function prospered under the leadership of a new professional administrator. Tenured administrators continued to give strong leadership in their zones of responsibility.

One thrust within the college has been that of energy management. The solar heating system for pool water has proven to be highly effective. Bulbs were partially removed from fixtures in several buildings and incandescent fixtures have been replaced by fluorescent ones in others. These and other measures have reduced energy consumption by 12 to 15 percent in recent months.

The present construction project is also directed toward energy management. It includes a computerized system plus certain architectural modifications aimed toward that same goal. The new facilities project in the planning stage has similar objectives.

Enrollments in certain of the college's programs must be monitored as to their productivity in relation to cost. This is often a problem in smaller colleges. Similarly, there must be continued study of new and different programs which might be more in demand by the clientele of the area. These matters will continue to receive attention.

NORTHEASTERN OKLAHOMA A&M COLLEGE

PRESIDENT D. D. CREECH

Miami, Oklahoma

The most significant improvement in Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College facilities in many years was made possible during 1979-

80 with the allocation of $483,300 in capital improvement funds. These funds were used to reroof two buildings; tuck-point, clean brick, and install thermopane glass and insulation in two shop buildings; paint the Library/Administration and Fine Arts Buildings; renovate and enlarge the swine barn at the college farm; install elevators in three buildings for use by the handicapped; rebuild the baseball and track facilities; and pave parking lots.

The reorganization and strengthening of the student advising system reported in 1978-79 have been given major credit for a ten percent increase in the retention of students over the past year.

The housing system continues to be occupied at more than 100 percent of the designated capacity.

The first classes in Television Production were organized and conducted during the year. Enrollment was excellent, and students reported a superior learning opportunity.

The enrollment of nontraditional-aged students continued to increase, and class schedules have been arranged to permit attendance at times convenient for them. Plans for the future include a continuing restructuring of class schedules to accommodate these students and to save on transportation and energy costs.

Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College continues to provide an excellent educational opportunity for students and is committed to future excellence and improvement.

OSCAR ROSE JUNIOR COLLEGE

PRESIDENT JOE PACKNETT

Midwest City, Oklahoma

The tenth year of operation for Oscar Rose Junior College marked a period of extensive review of accomplishments, concerns, and future directions for the college. In addition to the annual reports prepared in each of the four administrative units of the college, longer range recommendations for the 1980's were begun by a special task force assigned by the president. This task force was assigned a project known as I.C.U. or Institutional Commitments Updated and will complete its review of all phases of operation and service during the fall of 1980.

Progress continued toward completion of the Revised Campus Master Plan, with only one building remaining to be constructed in the central quadrangle. New construction and renovation of the E. T. Dunlap Learning Resources Center were completed; construction began on the Tom Steed Career Development Center; two additional tennis courts were built; and numerous building renovation and parking lot projects were completed. In addition, plans were drawn and approved for the Engineering Technology building, and research was begun on an automated energy management system.

Full-time faculty numbered 154; 13 staff members taught part time, and an additional 122 supplemental faculty were employed. Combined teaching staff thus totaled 289. The combined teaching loads of all faculty resulted in a full-time teaching equivalency of 200.4 for the two academic semesters, and each FTE instructor produced 763 semester credit hours during the same time period. Enrollments and credit hour production follow: Summer 1979, 3,695 collegiate enrollments totaling 18,656 credit hours; Fall 1979, 8,627 enrollments totaling 74,864 credit hours; Spring 1980, 7,807 enrollments totaling 66,024 credit hours. Totals for the full year were 20,129 collegiate enrollments totaling 159,544 credit hours, with an additional 11,392 noncollegiate enrollments.

Classes began in the spring for the Nursing program, and planning and course development for Dental Laboratory Technology were completed. Fashion Merchandising, Aviation, and Public Administration classes also began. New curriculum development was extensive, with 16 program revisions, 2 deletions, and 8 new program and certificate requests forwarded to the State Regents.

Sixteen new special education projects were implemented, including a Basic Skills Program and an Environmental Internship Program. In addition, numerous important projects such as Special Services for Disadvantaged Students, Training and Technical Assistance, and the Management Training Center were continued.

Regents, faculty, and staff of Oscar Rose Junior College look forward to another successful academic year for the college.

SEMINOLE JUNIOR COLLEGE

PRESIDENT ELMER TANNER

Seminole, Oklahoma

During the Fiscal Year, 1979-80, Seminole Junior College was notified by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools that the college had received a continuing full accreditation status by the association for ten years. Also, the National League of Nursing notified the college that the Nursing Department had received an eight-year accreditation, which is quite an accomplishment for the college.

In the area of capital improvements, the college was able to construct a badly needed Maintenace Building, and timers were installed in all the buildings to conserve energy. The college was notified that it would receive $350,000 to start Phase I of the addition to the Physical Education Building.

Enrollment is continuing to be stable. A new program, Construction-Management Technology has been added.

In the area of activity, the Baseball Team at Seminole Junior College finished fourth in the National Junior College World Series.

The major emphasis at Seminole Junior College this past year has been to continue development of the institution into a more comprehensive two-year college.

SOUTH OKLAHOMA CITY JUNIOR COLLEGE

PRESIDENT DALE L. GIBSON
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

The year 1979-80 has been a record one for this institution, and there are three major accomplishments.

First was a goal established in 1974-75 by the Board of Regents when they and the administration became committed to bring faculty salaries to a reasonable place in the labor market. In order to be in a position to hire the best qualified faculty members available and to reward those qualified faculty who had been with the institution, they embarked on a series of steps to raise faculty salaries to the mean projected average for the region:

—A wage/salary plan was implemented in December, 1977, designed to give fair and equal treatment to all employees.

—The principal of wise management of funds was maintained while keeping in mind that employees are the heart of any institution.

—Special mid-year raises were given in 1979-80 to continue moving faculty averages upward.

In the spring of 1980, with the support and help of the Governor, the Legislature, and the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education, this goal was achieved when the Board of Regents approved increases which brought the average salary of SOCJC faculty to $19,400.

The second major accomplishment this year was the product of another concern of the Board and administration pertaining to growth. It began over one and one-half years ago with the planning and implementation of a Marketing Plan designed to reestablish the growth pattern. The success of the plan was evidenced with a 19 percent increase in student body and a total 3,219 full-time-equivalent enrollment. Steady increases have continued throughout each entry as a result of the recruitment of new students, the dedication of the faculty and staff to help retain students once they are enrolled, and an institutional commitment of "caring."

The third major accomplishment was two-fold: completion of a revised five-year Master Plan and the start of Phase III in the building program.

The Master Plan, based on the eight-year history of the institution, projects enrollments, programs, services and facilities necessary to meet student needs as the college continues its growth toward 5,000 FTE students.

Phase III progress has included selection of an architectural firm to plan, develop and help construct the Humanities and the Fine Arts facility. At the time of this report, contracts had been let on the first two construction stages which will provide a total of 35,840 square feet of space. With additional allocations for this major stage of the building, it is projected occupancy can occur in August, 1981.

These achievements must be considered major accomplishments. This institution has turned its face to the sun and to the future. We are mindful of the fact that the future is not today; the future is for all of the tomorrows and those students who will pass through our institution on their way to fulfilling their niche in life.

TULSA JUNIOR COLLEGE
PRESIDENT ALFRED M. PHILIPS
Tulsa, Oklahoma

The past ten years have been years of development and growth for Tulsa Junior College. When TJC opened its doors in September, 1970, student enrollment was approximately 2,800. The combined enrollment on the Metro Campus and the Northeast Campus in the fall of 1979 was over 10,500 students. The Special Programs area of non-credit classes, which began in 1971, climbed from a few hundred students to an average of more than 2,500 students per semester this past year.

During the 1979-80 school year, the Northeast Campus, which began operations in the fall of 1978, opened two new buildings — the Engineering Technologies building and the Student Center — as the enrollment increased to 1,500 students.

Developments in instruction this past year included the restructuring and name change of five technical-occupational programs. Bookkeeping became Accounting Assistant; Mid-Management became Administrative Management; Residential and Commercial Construction became Construction Technology; Climate Control Technology became Climate Control and Energy Conservation Technology, and Safety Technology became Safety and Control Technology. Also, a certificate of achievement option was added to the Medical Assistant program. Consistent with attention to program enrollments and cost effectiveness, three programs were discontinued due to a diminishing demand for graduates as well as decreasing enrollments. These programs were Culinary Arts, Instrumentation and Control Systems Technology, and Volunteer Services Leadership. The Apprenticeship and Machine Tool Operator programs were incorporated into the Construction Technology and Machinist Technology programs as associate degree and certificate options.

More than 3,000 students used the computer assisted instruction services to strengthen their education in the areas of Computer Science, Accounting, English, Mathematics, Chemistry, Music, and Psychology.

The Diagnostic Prescriptive Learning Center served 2,322 students in 4,100 individual conference sessions. Among other student services, Metro Campus Counseling administered 2,802 individual tests and assisted 1,857 students through the Career Center. There were 611 students enrolled in the one credit hour "Career Exploration" class. The Northeast Campus Counseling Center was designated as the official General Educational Development (GED) Testing Center for Tulsa Junior College. Some 71 students took the GED test at the Northeast Campus this past year.

Telecourses — credit classes via television — were implemented, and five classes were offered during the fall and summer semesters, with seven classes offered during the spring semester. Total enrollment in these three semesters was 1,407.

Tulsa Junior College looks forward to a very successful eleventh year of operation.

WESTERN OKLAHOMA STATE COLLEGE

PRESIDENT W. D. BURRIS

Altus, Oklahoma

The central mission of Western Oklahoma State College is to serve the people of western and southwestern Oklahoma by providing a wide variety of educational opportunities. The 1979-80 college year marked another period of growth and progress in support of this mission.

Enrollment at WOSC for fall, 1979, was 1,752 students, an 8 percent increase over fall, 1978. In the 1980 spring semester, WOSC reached an all-time high headcount enrollment of 1,818.

WOSC seems to be following the national trends with regard to the increased number of students over 30 years old who are attending college. Of the 1980 spring total of 1,818 students, 18.6 percent were between 31 and 40 years of age, and 15.7 percent were aged 41 and over. Over one-third, or 34.3 percent, of the spring enrollment fell into the category of "adult" students.

Another record was broken when the 1979-80 graduating class, with 227 graduates, became the largest in the 54-year history of the college.

In support of the five-year plan for further development of technical/occupational education at WOSC, which was implemented during 1978-79, the 1979 fall semester marked the beginning of major changes in technical/occupational education. A new Division of Technical Occupation was organized to form the eighth academic division of the college, and a Director of Technical/Occupational Education was added to the administration. Fifteen educational programs were separated from other academic divisions of the college to be administered through the new technical education division, and a new graphic arts program was implemented. In November, 1979, a sixteenth occupational program was approved for the establishment of an associate degree in nursing. Full implementation of the nursing program is projected for fall, 1981, when students will be accepted for the first class.

Section I of Phase III, Technical/Occupational Education Facility, was completed and occupied in the fall of 1979. This facility houses four programs: Child Care and Home Economics, Law Enforcement and Corrections, Aviation, and Graphic Arts.

WOSC began another major building project during 1979-80 when construction was begun on the new Fine Arts Auditorium. To be completed with capital improvement funds appropriated by the Oklahoma State Legislature at a project cost of $1.9 million, the addition of the Fine Arts Facility will allow the WOSC drama and music departments to expand their instructional programs. Occupancy of the Fine Arts Auditorium is projected for fall, 1981.

A program of energy conservation for WOSC was put into action by the President at the beginning of the 1979-80 college year. The energy plan was developed as a result of a comprehensive survey of the college's fuel consumption. Throughout the college, measures were set in motion for energy conservation through lighting control, heating and air-conditioning control, and hot-water control. Summer college classes and administrative offices now operate under a schedule revised to concentrate class and office time during the hours of low-energy consumption.

Energy conservation measures saved the college 10 to 15 percent in energy consumption this year. Although this was less than the goal of a 20 percent saving, it was enough to offset the overall 10 percent increase in energy consumption that resulted with the addition of the new technical education building.

With the end of the fiscal year 1979-80, WOSC ended its ninth year as a member institution of The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education.

SAYRE JUNIOR COLLEGE

PRESIDENT HARRY PATTERSON

Sayre, Oklahoma

Sayre Junior College had its beginning in 1938. Therefore, this is our forty-first year of service to its community. This semester Sayre Junior College has the second largest enrollment in its history. As the college is located in a sparsely-populated area, this enrollment is noteworthy at a time when many colleges are experiencing declining enrollments. Overall enrollment includes less than one percent foreign students.

Abundant and growing interest in health careers programs continues. The college enjoys an exceptionally fine relationship with hospitals of this area in placing students for training as well as employment following graduation. The college has an agreement with the Fort Sill Army Hospital which permits Radiography Technology students to do intern work at the hospital which has in operation the latest technology for radiology, ultrasound and nuclear medicine.

This year salary increases averaged about $1,600 per faculty member. However, faculty salaries are still below average for junior colleges. As more funds become available, one of the highest priorities is increasing salaries and benefits to the level of other colleges.

As one facet of its service to the area, Sayre Junior College furnishes learning center, dormitory space, and meals for police schools sponsored by the Council on Law Enforcement Education and Training. Approximately 40 police officers attended the school's 200 hours of basic instruction. In addition, several short-term advanced training sessions were also held during the year.

In cooperation with the Regional Service Center and Sayre Public Schools, the college also furnishes facilities for pre-school physical therapy and speech therapy as well as pre-school for mentally handicapped students.

The community service area is expanding with courses such as Estate Planning, Microwave Cooking, and Everyday Law. These courses were developed as a result of a community survey of areas of interest and were very well received by the community and service area. Overall, the college year was a productive and rewarding experience.

BARTLESVILLE WESLEYAN COLLEGE

PRESIDENT JOHN M. SNOOK

Bartlesville, Oklahoma

Bartlesville Wesleyan College is the only college The Wesleyan Church sponsors west of the Mississippi. The church provides a good student pool to draw from, helping to maintain enrollment increases. Bartlesville Wesleyan College believes in quality education in a Christian environment, and it is willing to articulate to all that the philosophy at Wesleyan is that of dignity, dedication, and discipline. We believe these three ingredients will contribute to every student who matriculates through out academic programs and encourage each individual to develop into a scholar who can accept the responsibilities necessary for our accelerated society.

BWC's enrollment has increased every year since it became a four-year liberal arts college in 1972, the student population having increased 260 to 742 since that date. BWC led all private colleges and universities in Oklahoma in summer school enrollment growth in 1980, with an increase of 46.2 percent.

The college's two-year old Gap Scholarshare fund-raising program continues to help the college with its funds. It is designed to pick up the difference between what the student pays to attend BWC and what it actually costs to provide the educational program. A "Give-A-Gift" emphasis was initiated in 1980 to help the college celebrate 75 years in Christian education. New Testaments or Bibles in another language are being placed in another country in honor of donors. The President's Club, comprised of individuals who make an annual contribution of $1,000 or more, continues to act as the college's human endowment fund since there are no government or philanthropic commitments to the college.

In 1979-80 BWC employed a group of six students, The Freedom Singers, to travel for the college on a full-time basis to hold local concerts in our areas of concentration in the western part of the United States. Their basic assignment is the recruitment of students and the development of a "friendship base" and image building for the college.

The multi-purpose Performance Center, completed in 1979, is now in full use and has greatly enhanced the men and women's intercollegiate basketball programs, as well as the intramural programs and physical education curriculum. BWC's inaugural intercollegiate soccer season in 1979 was culminated by a National Christian College Athletic Association (NCCAA) District title. In 1980 the team defended that title and went on the NCCAA national finals.

Total enrollment at Bartlesville Wesleyan College this fall was the highest ever, and the college facilities are being used to the fullest extent. Final enrollment figures indicate a regular student headcount of 742, a 14 percent increase from 652 the previous fall semester. Of the 742 students, there are 426 full-time and 316 part-time. There are currently 278 dormitory students on campus.

During the 1979-80 school year, over 155 students were enrolled in the Suzuki Music Program. This program offers instruction in piano, violin and cello. This program also provides Bartlesville Wesleyan with many community contacts that are advantageous to the college as a majority of students come from the city of Bartlesville.

BETHANY NAZARENE COLLEGE

PRESIDENT JOHN ALLAN KNIGHT

Bethany, Oklahoma

Bethany Nazarene College is the recognized college for the South Central Educational Region of the Church of the Nazarene serving the states of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, and the South Central Latin American District. While the college shares vital religious identity with the Church, it is non-sectarian in spirit and policy, and numerous religious affiliations are represented in the campus personnel.

Enrollment statistics indicate a gradual increase over recent years with current enrollment at 1,378, almost equally divided between men and women.

A major addition to academic offerings is the implementation of the baccalaureate program in Nursing. The junior clinical year is scheduled for the fall semester, 1980, with clinical contacts in the Bethany and Oklahoma City areas. Staffing and curriculum development will continue through another year.

Graduate programs at the master's degree level have been expanded to include a master's degree program in business, Master of Science in Management with a special emphasis on small business management. The college has been identified as a Small Business Institute participating institution, lending assistance to the small business organization through the SBI Case Plan.

Construction of a new business and home economics building begun last year is scheduled for completion before the end of 1980. The building contains approximately 32,000 square feet on two floors and an auditorium-classroom. Cost of the building is approximately $1.2 million.

Extensive remodeling of an existing building during the summer has permitted the college to consolidate several areas dealing with student services. The student development services concept brings into proximity, both in function and in a common office complex, the services of the Dean of Students, Chaplain, Health Center, Educational Tutorial Center, and Career Planning and Placement.

Other areas receiving significant facility improvement were the Office of Church Relations and the athletic field, now equipped with lighting for night activities.

In July, 1980, a 10-year accreditation was approved by the North Central Association with a five-year review of new graduate programs. The accreditation followed an intensive self-study during 1979 involving students, faculty, staff, and administration.

A grant of $835,000 has been received from Title III Strengthening Developing Institutions Program covering three years. Programs supported include Institutional Planning and Management, Career Planning and Placement, Instructional Improvement, Early Alert-Student Success and Curriculum Media Center Development.

BNC also received a grant to continue support of the Title IV Special Services program for four years at $96,000 per year. The program is entitled E. T. C. (Educational Tutorial Center) and is designed to provide assistance to approximately 200 students at all levels, but especially to new students. The program offers counseling help, assistance in some of the basic learning skills, and tutorial assistance in a variety of areas. Title III and IV personnel also assist in the orientation and advising of new "undecided" students.

Institutional planning, both short and long range, is following a plan outlined by the college president with assistance from Title III personnel. The plan includes several study modules by the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges. Modules completed last year were the Faculty Activity Analysis, Campus Goals and Climate and Instructional Program Analysis.

For the ninth consecutive year the college has operated in the black, and in 1979-80 raised through development more than twice the amount raised in any previous year. A $15 million program called "The Greater BNC Program," has been approved by the Board of Trustees to secure funds for endowment, capital needs, and scholarships. The college is on schedule in this effort and will continue to pursue its goal of academic excellence.

MIDWEST CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

PRESIDENT STANLEY LETCHER

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

Midwest Christian College is looking forward to one of its finest years. Enrollment is up, and additional facilities have been provided for men's quarters.

Tom Graham has joined the staff in the capacity as Director of Student Recruitment and Retention. Tom was formerly with CIY, a national youth organization, and will bring a wealth of experience and expertise to this position.

A new Associate of Arts program has been introduced that will complement our already established baccelaureate program, and as this program continues to expand, enrollment should increase in proportion.

A foundation has been established that will be the recipient for handling funds for building projects. The next building project will be a Library-Learning Center, and ground work for that project is being laid at the present time.

OKLAHOMA BAPTIST UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT E. EUGENE HALL

Shawnee, Oklahoma

The most dominant event at Oklahoma Baptist University during 1979-80 was the actual launching of the campaign to complete the campus by 1985, the 75th anniversary of the school. The campaign consists of renovating most existing buildings and constructing a health, physical education, and recreation complex and a science complex.

The renovation of the Women's Missionary Union Memorial Dormitory and the Brotherhood Dormitory to "like new" condition was the first step in the campaign and was completed this past year. The next step toward completing the campus is the construction of the HPER complex which is set to start in February, 1981.

In order to raise the necessary funds to complete the campus, the Growth for the Future Capital Campaign was also launched during the year.

Another significant event was the installation of a new electronic, computerized, fully automated telephone system. Each person on campus — staff, faculty, and students alike — now has his or her phone and number and can dial directly all local and long-distance calls.

In the academic area, a new degree program was added, the Bachelor of Business Administration. Of the 274 graduates this past year, 51 received a degree in business and administration, more than any other degree program. Other degree programs with a significant number of graduates were religion (47) and music (42). Twenty-six percent of the graduates, or 72, qualified for teacher certification.

The Herschel H. and Frances J. Hobbs Lectureship in Baptist Faith and Heritage was established by friends of the couple in honor of their outstanding Christian service. The Lectureship will sponsor annual lectures on Baptist theology, Baptist history, studies of the Bible, and other related themes. Hobbs is pastor emeritus of the First Baptist Church of Oklahoma City.

Plans were completed to establish a School of Christian Services in addition to the School of Fine Arts and the School of Arts and Sciences now in existence. The new school will include the departments of philosophy and religion. A dean for the new school will be appointed before the 1981-1982 academic year.

A significant change was made in the administration of the Prichard Scholarship. Heretofore, Prichard scholarships were granted only to students committed to the preaching ministry and to missions. As a result of the change, Prichard funds may be used to provide scholarships for students committed to other kinds of religious vocation such as a youth ministry, religious education, church music, and church recreation.

Of the nearly 1,550 students enrolled at OBU during the year, approximately 432 were committed to a religious vocation — ministers (185), missions (131), church music (75), religious education (34), and church secretary (7).

A new staff position, University Chaplain, was created this year. The Chaplain is responsible for counseling students, planning and leading both chapel services and assembly programs, and coordinating all religious activities.

One of the most unique programs offered at OBU this year was an Alcohol Abuse Seminar. About 150 attended the two-day seminar featuring numerous speakers from around the nation.

One especially exciting venture was undertaken — the production of a television special. Funding for the program was provided by several alumni and friends of the university. Produced in conjunction with the Southern Baptist Convention Radio-Television Commission and directed by James Woodward, dean of the OBU School of Fine Arts, the 30-minute program has already aired on several commercial television stations throughout Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

PRESIDENT J. TERRY JOHNSON

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

The 1979-80 academic year at Oklahoma Christian College was highlighted by many special events. The institution continues to grow in numbers and academic stature.

An enrollment of 1,635 was a sixth consecutive record for the number of students choosing to attend the institution. Recent years have brought steady growth and improvement to Oklahoma Christian. Since 1975, the college's operating budget and net worth have doubled; the endowment has increased from $1.6 million to over $8.9 million, and eight major buildings have been constructed.

Financially, the institution remains sound. An increasing endowment promises an ever-growing resource for operating support. Gift income since 1975 has increased dramatically. A source of funding which is now coming to fruition is the alumni association of the college.

The Business Division is the largest academic department on campus. Presently, 415 students have chosen a business-related major at Oklahoma Christian College. This surging enrollment mandated the construction of a new business building made possible through a generous Oklahoma City business community. Completion for this facility is scheduled for mid-1981.

Certainly a high point for the 1979-80 year was the second annual Gala Week, a program begun in 1978 to celebrate achievement in the arts and communications fields. News commentator Edwin Newman, illustrator Robert Peak and violin virtuoso Eugene Fodor were present to give stature to this event. A third Gala Week is planned for 1980-81.

The College continues under the leadership of President J. Terry Johnson, Chancellor James O. Baird, Executive Vice President R. Stafford North, and Vice President Guy J. Ross, Jr.

OKLAHOMA CITY UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT JERALD C. WALKER

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

Oklahoma City University, an independent church-related institution, portrays a unique blend of tradition, quality, community, and innovation. The university takes pride in its dual role as Oklahoma City's university and the United Methodist university of Oklahoma.

On December 8, 1979, Dr. Jerald C. Walker was inaugurated as the tenth president of OCU. Dr. Walker, 1960 graduate of OCU, formerly served as President at Baker University in Baldwin City, Kansas, and held administrative positions at Southwestern University at Georgetown, Texas; John J. Pershing College, Beatrice, Nebraska; and Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The four units which comprise Oklahoma City University are: the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Music and Performing Arts, the School of Management and Business Sciences, and the School of Law. The trustees have approved the creation of a fifth academic unit, the School of Religion and Church Vocations, which will accept its first students beginning in the fall of 1981. The trustees also approved a new MBA program for the FAA Center and the Shawnee area.

Significant progress was realized during the past year in identifying and admitting qualified students to the university. As of May, 1980, undergraduate applications for fall, 1980, were 66 percent ahead of last year, while Oklahoma residents were up by 290 percent. Graduate applications were up by 89 percent over last year. There was a marked decline in international student applications for fall, 1980.

The university's law school received notice in May, 1980, of continued accreditation by the American Bar Association.

Approximately $1.4 million was expended during the 1979-80 fiscal year for general improvement of facilities. During the year, the university completed renovating the Gold Star Memorial Building which houses the Law School, Law Library, and the department of education. In addition, capital improvements included refurbishing the residence halls and the student/faculty center.

The 1979-80 fiscal year also demonstrated the university's growing financial strength. During this past year, Oklahoma City University realized a 91 percent increase in gifts, grants, and pledges compared to 1978-79.

The New Era Community Campaign conducted in the business and industrial communities of greater Oklahoma City during the spring, 1980, was over-subscribed by approximately 25 percent as a result of a $1 million challenge grant from three local friends of the university.

The financial support from the United Methodist Church increased from $397,000 to $2.3 million during the fiscal year 1979-80, and this figure will pass the church's $3 million goal by December 31, 1980.

The university endowment was increased during the year by 123 percent. A multi-year $25 million endowment drive is currently under way on behalf of the university.

The university's annual Mid-Year Institute was conducted January 7-10, 1980. Speakers included Congressman John Rhodes, Senator David Boren, General Tom Stafford, and Commissioner Norma Eagleton.

The world-famous Surrey Singers, the summer Lyric Theatre, the annual Mid-Year Instiute and Taft Seminar for Teachers, the Business Research Center, the Center for Business and Professional Development, and a variety of other special programs continue to give Oklahoma City University a significant outreach into the city, state, nation, and world.

OKLAHOMA MISSIONARY BAPTIST COLLEGE, INSTITUTE & SEMINARY

PRESIDENT R. T. PERRITT

Marlow, Oklahoma

The Oklahoma Missionary Baptist College, Institute & Seminary completed the finest year in the history of the institution. In addition to the largest enrollment in a school year, the institution paid in full the indebtedness against the college facilities. Furthermore, needed new equipment was added; and, also, considerable repairs and upkeep to the properties were accomplished.

The college initiated a five-year plan to increase library holdings and use. By pursuit of this plan, library holdings are expected to be increased by two to three times over current levels. The library will expand its service by means of additional equipment and opportunities for use. Hundreds of new books, cassettes, tapes, filmstrips, and periodicals will find their places in the library along with hundreds of used ones. As the institution progresses with its five-year plan, the library will become more and more important for the faculty, students, and supporting community.

ORAL ROBERTS UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT ORAL ROBERTS

Tulsa, Oklahoma

A year of active expansion in programs and services highlighted the 1979-80 academic year at Oral Roberts University.

In its fifteenth year of operation, ORU's student enrollment jumped to 4,025, including, for the first time, graduate and professional students in ORU's newly-opened O. W. Coburn School of Law and the Anna Vaughn School of Nursing. With the opening of these schools, the number of graduate-level programs increased to six.

The beginning of the new academic year also saw the opening of two clinics: the Dental Center, a patient-care facility used by dental students; and the Family Practice Center, an extension of the Family Medicine Department of the ORU School of Medicine, and used to treat some 300 families in the Tulsa community.

The growing Oral Roberts University also received three notices of accreditation on the graduate level. The School of Dentistry was granted continuation of its "Accreditation Eligible" status by the Commission on Dental Accreditation. This is the highest accreditation status possible at the school's current state of development. The School of Theology received full accreditation from the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada, making it the only fully-accredited charismatic seminary in the world. And the Family Practice Residency program received accreditation from the Liaison Committee on Graduate Medical Education.

In addition, ORU initiated a part-time Master of Business Administration degree and launched a health-care management major in the MBA program during the fall of 1980.

With active expansion under way in the academic area, ORU also expanded services and related programs. The Department of Special Instructional Programs enrolled a total of 4,109 students in its various continuing education seminars, camps, and summer school. Twenty-one continuing education seminars were conducted in the areas of dentistry, medicine, business, theology, law, and others. A full-scale correspondence program was also launched, beginning with 12 full-credit courses and 3 noncredit courses.

A new Office of Alumni Relations was established, and director Starr Clay was named to head this vital link with alumni. The Career Planning and Placement Office conducted some 50 seminars and sponsored more than 70 on-campus recruitment visits from companies across the country. And the library added some 75,000 new volumes and 125,000 microforms.

Construction, always a typical sight on the ORU campus, again continued during the 1979-80 academic year. This year, it was the City of Faith Medical and Research Center, its 3 towering buildings topped out, and work on the interior begun. Due to open in 1981, the City of Faith will provide opportunities for both study and ministry for students in all of ORU's graduate and professional programs.

ORU also enjoyed immense success in the athletic arena in its first year as a member of the newly-formed Midwestern City Conference. ORU garnered conference championships in five of its six athletic teams. Women's sports achieved high success as well.

ORU is proud of its accomplishments and contributions to higher education during the 1979-80 academic year and looks forward with enthusiasm and vigor to its potential in the 1980's.

PHILLIPS UNIVERSITY

PRESIDENT JOE R. JONES

Enid, Oklahoma

Upon becoming president of Phillips University July 1, 1979, Dr. Joe R. Jones identified several areas that required sustained attention during the first year of his administration.

First, the financial condition of the universty required immediate improvement. Second, the development program needed to be reorganized and expanded. And third, the image of the university required new clarity and definition, particularly in its relationship with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

Several decisive measures were promptly taken to reduce the university's past operating deficits and improve Phillips' overall financial situation. Financial exigency was declared January 17, and 16 faculty and staff positions were terminated to save $250,000 annually over the next two years. No academic programs, however, were eliminated. In addition, tuition was raised $5 per credit hour.

To sustain these immediate financial gains, the university's admissions program was completely reorganized and re-staffed. Richard Ziegler was named director of admissions, and the services of a nationally-known consulting firm were retained for the year. It is anticipated that the fall of 1981 will be the beginning of a new growth in Phillips' enrollment.

Phillips' development program has also been substantially reorganized and a new staff added. Dr. Bernard Loposer, vice-president for marketing with a firm in Kansas City, was named vice-president for development at Phillips, and Patrick Hundley was added as assistant director of development. In addition, Gail Gunning was added to the development staff as director of alumni affairs, the first person to occupy that position full time in more than a decade.

The result has been an outstanding year of gift income and a revitalized alumni program. The number of alumni giving to the university nearly doubled, and gift income from other sources enabled Phillips to exceed its fund-raising goals by nearly $350,000.

Although Phillips has a long tradition of close cooperation with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), several steps were taken to strengthen and clarify the nature of that relationship.

As a result of this renewed effort, the conviction emerged from the church's leadership that the Disciples of Christ should assume greater responsibility for Phillips' financial condition, particularly its accumulated indebtedness.

Plans are under way to launch a $2 million, three-year campaign in Disciples' churches throughout Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. Called Share Phillips University's Renewal (SPUR), the campaign will be under the administrative leadership of Ralph Glenn. A $115,000 challenge grant from the Kerr Foundation has been secured to underwrite the first year's administrative costs.

Phillips' internal academic and program development included the appointment of a new dean to the Graduate Seminary. Dr. James F. Caton, previously associate dean, assumed the position in February, 1980. A new, university-wide internal governance structure, focusing on a Faculty Senate, has also been implemented. In addition, student services were expanded through the development of a new advising program conducted by the office of community life.

Although many challenges await Phillips University in the coming years, the fundamental components for a vigorous liberal arts institution with vital commitments in its church relations have been fortified and mobilized. The foundation for Phillips' future is being restored, and new standards of excellence in education have taken root.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TULSA

PRESIDENT J. PASCHAL TWYMAN

Tulsa, Oklahoma

Fiscal year 1979-80 will stand as a benchmark in the 85-year history of the University of Tulsa. With $45.25 million pledged at year's end, the most ambitious fund campaign ever, Dimensions for a New Decade, exceeded the $43 million goal set by the trustees in 1978. This will provide a financial base upon which to implement the 10-year plan of academic enrichment and physical improvement.

Completion of the $3.3 million underground McFarlin Library addition and passing the million-volume mark were major milestones for TU libraries. Construction also began on the $750,000 Holmes Student Services Center, on a $1.2 million addition to John Rogers Hall Law Library and on an expansion of the central physical plant.

Fall term opened with 6,311 students, up 1.2 percent over 1978. For the 10 years ending with fall 1979, the university's mean total enrollment was 6,244. While admission test scores declined nationally, test scores of freshmen entering the university improved slightly.

The period was highlighted by achievements in several academic areas. In the College of Arts and Sciences, enrollment increased and an honors program commenced with 27 top high school graduates. The graduate program in modern letters established the Center for the Study of Women's Literature under the direction of author and scholar Germaine Greer.

In the College of Business Administration, both graduate and undergraduate enrollment increased to capacity. A newly founded Office of Business Research immediately set up an advisory committee of local business community members.

A new doctoral program in counseling and allied services was begun in the College of Education to prepare students for careers outside traditional public school areas.

The College of Engineering and Physical Sciences continued to attract excellent new faculty members at a time when salaries in industry are drawing many prospects out of academics. The undergraduate enrollment increased to more than 1,000 students. Sponsored research in engineering reached a record level of $1.3 million.

In the College of Law, Frank K. Walwer, associate dean of law at Columbia University, was named to assume the deanship in August 1980. The National Energy Law and Policy Institute received a $200,000 grant from the Department of Energy and Corporation Commission for interdisciplinary research on implementing a new national public utilities law in Oklahoma.

The College of Nursng reassessed and reorganized its curriculum. It began recruiting senior faculty members to influence research and scholarly publication.

The Graduate School experienced an 11.3 percent enrollment increase. Its research office reported a record total of $2.5 million from private and governmental sources. Research has more than doubled over the past five years.

Enrollment in the Division of Continuing Education reached nearly 8,000, up 19 percent from the previous year. And in Student Financial Services, awards totaling more than $7.6 million were made from both university and outside sources.

Total current fund revenues increased $4,152,729 to $30,513,984, while total assets increased $9,924,072 to $82,446,072. Total educational and general expenditures were up $3,350,808 from the previous fiscal year to total $25,882,016.

BACONE COLLEGE

PRESIDENT DEAN CHAVERS

Muskogee, Oklahoma

Bacone College, which has historically been a college serving the higher education needs of American Indians, celebrated its one-hundredth year in 1980. This American Baptist-related junior college offers liberal arts education to over 500 students.

Several new programs have been started in the past year. One of these is a program to meet the special needs of the gifted and talented American Indian student, and is apparently the only such program in the nation. A new Upward Bound program has entered its second year, and a formal Student Activities program offers continual extracurricular and intramural activities for students. The second Conference for Pastoral Development was held in February, and this program will continue to meet the needs of Indian ministers and lay leaders, and those enaged in ministry to Indians.

Two new programs are planned for next summer, a School of Theology, and a Comparative Cultures Institute. The School of Theology, in conjunction with seminaries, will eventually offer a degree program for lay ministers and lay leaders among Indian churches. The Comparative Cultures Institute will offer a linguistic-based study opportunity to compare and contrast Eastern and Indian cultures.

The newest effort this year of the college is meeting the adult and continuing education needs of the local area. Dr. Chris Cavender is the new Associate Dean of Instruction in charge of this effort, which is intended to be a permanent arm of the college if there is enough interest.

In the past two years, the college has been strengthened in many ways. One of these ways is through an increase of some 40 percent in gift income to the college. Another is in the raising of some $179,000 outside the budget for needed renovations to the four dormitories. Another is the increase in fall-to-fall retention, which is now the highest in many years, and is the result of improvements in programs, buildings, and professionalism of faculty and staff. The quality of the student body has improved, as reflected in ACT test scores. And for the first time, the nursing program enrolled the maximum number of students in both Fall 1979 and Fall 1980.

HILLSDALE FREE WILL BAPTIST COLLEGE

PRESIDENT DON ELKINS

Moore, Oklahoma

The 1979-80 school year at Hillsdale Free Will Baptist College marked the first year of President Don Elkins' leadership. The future looks bright for the college.

Members of the faculty and librarian continue to develop their academic qualifications and skills. This is an important factor in maintaining a priority of academic excellence and improving the status of the library.

The total number of students enrolled at Hillsdale during the fall semester of 1979 was 153. The total enrollment for the spring semester of 1980 was 150 students. A total of 52 students received degrees during the May 1980 commencement exercises, making this Hillsdale's largest graduating class. Thirty-one students received their Associate in Arts degrees, and 21 students received their Bachelor of Arts degrees in Theology.

Gift income for last year decreased from the previous year. However, increases in student and other sources of revenue increased. These increases, together with a decrease in expenditures, enabled the college to show a net surplus of funds for the year ending June 30, 1980, of almost $19,000.

ST. GREGORY'S COLLEGE

PRESIDENT MICHAEL ROETHLER

Shawnee, Oklahoma

St. Gregory's College opened its 1979 Fall Semester with an enrollment of 337 students, almost a 20 percent increase over the previous year. This included 208 freshmen, 113 sophomores, and 16 special students. Upon completion of the academic year, the college conferred the Associate Degree upon 74 graduates as follows: Associate of Arts, 11; Associate in Science, 47; Associate in Business Administration, 12; Associate in Applied Science, 4.

During this academic year one of the major thrusts of the adminstration and staff was long-range planning. With the assistance of the Department of Higher Education and Administration at Oklahoma State University, college officials were able to identify variables necessary for projection of a five-year plan.

The college's Community Services Program once again established new records at it served the non-traditional educational needs of the community. It successfully generated and directed 120 short courses and special events with a total of 3,459 participants. Moreover, it coordinated facilities usage for 126 non-profit groups, serving 9,748 participants.

Academically, a new Learning Center was initiated through support of Title III of the Higher Education Act. During its first semester of operation, students using the Center regularly had an average GPA increase of 0.35. During the summer months, faculty members were provided small grants in order to prepare learning cassettes for use in courses which they teach.

In December, the college launched a capital campaign in an attempt to attract funding for a Recreation and Child Development Center. This $2 million project is designed to serve three basic components of the college community: its Early Childhood Development Program, the recreational needs of the student body, and activities of the surrounding community.

In summary, 1979-1980 was a year of continued evaluation and growth as the faculty and students addressed themselves to the objectives of St. Gregory's College.

OKLAHOMA CITY SOUTHWESTERN COLLEGE

PRESIDENT FRANK G. TUNSTALL

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

The past year marked a turning point in the history of Oklahoma City Southwestern College. Under the leadership of its new president, Frank G. Tunstall, the college undertook a serious study of its future.

Continued financial problems led the administration, with the unanimous concurrence of the General Board of Administration of the International Pentecostal Holiness Church, to a decision to close the present campus and seek a new location for the institution, and at the same time revise its mission.

In the future the college will concentrate solely on the education of ministers, missionaries and church workers for the Pentecostal Holiness Church which sponsors the institution. Plans call for the completion of a new campus within the next two years.

SPARTAN SCHOOL OF AERONAUTICS

PRESIDENT VERNON M. SETTERHOLM

Tulsa, Oklahoma

Spartan School of Aeronautics has grown substantially in 1980 to meet the expanding needs of world aviation. The student body is now at more than 2,100 full-time students. More than 70 students will be awarded the Associate in Applied Science degree this year, and that total will rise significantly in the next two years.

The quality of education at Spartan has been improved again in 1980 with substantial increases in the student counselor staff and increased emphasis on instructor education and evaluation. Oklahoma State University Education Department staff is conducting courses this fall at Spartan for staff development. Attending are 43 of Spartan's instructors and staff.

Classrooms, equipment and facilities are being increased as Spartan's growth continues. That growth has included an increased complement of foreign students from Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

ENROLLMENT OF VETERANS IN OKLAHOMA

Public Law 89-358, Veterans' Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966, gives educational benefits to veterans, certain veterans' dependents, and servicemen with more than six months' active duty after February 1, 1955. Since original enactment, amendments have passed increasing monthly benefits, providing additional entitlement to undergraduate veteran students, and extending to ten years from date of discharge for completion of training.

GUARANTEED STUDENT LOAN PROGRAM

House Bill 1056 of the 30th Oklahoma Legislature directed the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education to develop a loan guarantee program to assist students in securing educational loans, Title IV-B of the Higher Education Act of 1965 provided for federal advances to the reserve fund of loan guarantee programs maintained by the several states. Final arrangements were completed in the fall of 1966 with the U. S. Office of Education so that this program could become operational.

As of June 30, 1980, a total of $495,006 in federal funds had been received for this program. This amount together with some $1,196,124 in state funds was maintained as a "reserve" against death or default. The number and dollar volume of loans outstanding by lending institutions and by educational institutions is shown in the following tables. Subsequent to the end of the last biennium, additional state funds together with amended federal legislation has considerably broadened the scope of this program.

STUDENT FINANCIAL AIDS

As the cost of education increases, more and more students become concerned about finances. The following seven programs which have provided assistance for more than a million students during this academic year should be of interest.

Basic Educational Opportunity Grants: This program provides for the payment of Basic Grant awards to students attending eligible institutions of higher education. All other sources of aid will be given in addition to the Basic Grant. The maximum grant eligibility for each student is $1800 less the amount the student and his family can be expected to contribute toward the student's education. The amount of this expected family contribution is determined on the basis of a family contribution schedule developed by the Office of Education which was printed in final form in the Federal Register on June 11, 1973.

College Work-Study: A program of employment in which the students, particularly one from a low-income family, is compensated for the number of hours he works for the institution, or for an eligible off-campus agency.

National Direct Student Loans: A program of borrowing, primarily for needy students, in which the student has an obligation to repay his loan, with three percent interest, within a ten-year period following college attendance.

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants: A program of direct grants in which the student receives a non-obligating award of funds, based on exceptional financial need and evidence of academic or creative promise.

Guaranteed Loans: A program of borrowing, primarily for students from middle or upper-income families. The student has an obligation to repay his loan with seven percent interest, after completing his full-time studies.

The Oklahoma Student Loan Program: The 1972 Oklahoma Legislature enacted into law Senate Bill #618 which created the Oklahoma Student Loan Authority to provide loans to students of Oklahoma as may be needed to help pay the cost of their education. The program will supplement the existing Guaranteed Student Loan Program and will provide a lending source to eligible students who may not otherwise be able to identify a lender.

Oklahoma Tuition Aid Grant Program: A program of direct grants to financially needy students supported by matching State and Federal funds. Maximum grants amount to up to $500 per year depending upon family income, family size, and educational costs. The program which began operation during 1974-75 is administered by the State Regents.

TITLE VII, HIGHER EDUCATION ACT OF 1965

The Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education was designated by the Governor of Oklahoma in 1964 as the agency responsible for administration of Title VII of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (formerly Title I of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963).

As the State Commission for this program, the State Regents were charged with the responsibility of developing a State Plan setting forth the method for assignment of priorities to applications for federal grants for the construction of undergraduate academic facilities. The Oklahoma State Plan, developed in accordance with regulations established by the U. S. Commissioner of Education, assigns priorities on the basis of future enrollment growth and the degree of utilization of existing facilities.

As of June 30, 1980, some $1.7 billion in grants have been approved nationwide, of which amount $26,465,463 has been received by Oklahoma institutions as shown in the following table:

TITLE VI-A, HIGHER EDUCATION ACT OF 1965

In 1966, the Governor of Oklahoma designated the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education as the agency responsible for administration of Title VI-A of the Higher Education Act of 1965. This new program provided for matching grants for the purchase of undergraduate instructional equipment. Two types of equipment are eligible. Laboratory and other special equipment and materials may be purchased for instruction in a variety of subjects. Another part of the program involves equipment and materials for closed-circuit instructional television.

The responsibility of the State Regents with regard to this program is similar to that involved in the Title VII-A program. The State Commission develops a State Plan for distributing the available funds to Oklahoma institutions. The State Commission reviews applications, and forwards successful applications to the Office of Education in Washington for final review and issuance of grants to institutions.

Grants have been recommended by the State Commission for this program during its first 15 fiscal years in the amount of $2,133,289 as shown in the following table.

COMPREHENSIVE FACILITIES PLANNING

The long-range planning efforts of the State Regents have been expanded and strengthened during the past years with the assistance of funds provided by the Higher Education Facilities Act, as amended by the Higher Education Act of 1965. From 1967 through 1974 the State Regents received $346,478 grants from this source.

These funds have enabled the State Regents to refine their system of facilities inventory and to include all private and municipal institutions in the inventory. The State Regents have also been able to convert the facilities data to computerized format and to begin the development of a computer-based comprehensive data system as the basis for long-range planning studies such as utilization and academic space needs.

As of 1974, grants for specific planning purposes are no longer available.

REGENTS' PUBLICATIONS

The information gathered, analyzed, and published by the State Regents provides the foundation upon which sound planning is based. In addition to reports published annually, a number of special purpose documents were published by the State Regents in Fiscal 1979-80.

THE OKLAHOMA COLLEGE TESTING PROGRAM

In the fall of 1959 all Oklahoma institutions of higher learning, both publicly and independently controlled, began a statewide testing program for high school seniors seeking admission to college.

The Oklahoma program is affiliated with the American College Testing Program, with headquarters at Iowa City, Iowa. Approximately one million high school seniors throughout the nation took the ACT examination during the 1979-80 school year.

In Oklahoma during 1979-80, approximately 31,000 students were tested.

Colleges and universities in the State System require that each entering freshman student must have had the ACT examination before the student can complete his enrollment as a freshman in college.

Colleges use the scores on the test in guidance, in admission, and in awarding scholarship aid to their applicants, as well as in placing those accepted in course sections or programs appropriate to their ability. High school advisors, individual students themselves, and their parents use the scores in helping plan for further education and careers.

Five scores are yielded by the ACT test. There are four part-scores indicating general aptitude for success (rather than mastery of specific course content) in English, mathematics, the social studies and the natural sciences. There is also a composite score. The composite score has been found to be as highly predictive of average college freshman grades as any other single index. The part-scores indicate general strengths or weaknesses in each of the four areas while the English and mathematics part-scores may be used for freshman course placement.

Booklets which tell how to interpret and use the scores, and which present normative and technical data, are provided by the program.

CRITERIA FOR DETERMINING AMOUNTS NEEDED FOR THE EDUCATIONAL AND GENERAL OPERATING BUDGET

The State Regents have changed the procedure for identifying the need for funds at institutions from a budget functional basis to an educational program basis. It is the purpose of the new procedure to relate the need for operating funds directly to educational programs of study offered at the institution. Research and study regarding costs of educational program operation at institutions in the State System and in the region over the past few years permitted the State Regents to move forward in the Fiscal Year 1973-74 on an experimental basis of educational program budgeting for three institutions. For 1974-75 the budget for all 20 state colleges and universities was determined on a program budget basis and this basis was used for the 25 colleges and universities in the State System for 1975-76, 1976-77, 1977-78, 1978-79, 1979-80, and continued for 1980-81. Guiding principles and procedures involved in this method are explained below.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES:

1. Oklahoma should support the educational programs of institutions in the State System at such level that will provide high-quality educational performance.
2. Each institution in the State System should carry out three broad areas of educational program responsibility: (a) instruction, (b) research, and (c) public service.
3. The budget needs of each institution should be determined on the basis of educational program costs including the three categories above projected for the budget year.
4. The instructional program costs should include: (a) resident instruction, (b) organized activities related to instruction, (c) library, (d) general administration, (e) general expense, and (f) operation and maintenance of the physical plant. Budget needs for organized research and extension and public service should be computed separately from instructional costs.
5. Primary factors that should be recognized in determining the instructional part of the budget needs should include: (a) type of institution, (b) instructional program costs by level, and (c) full-time-equivalent enrollment by level for the full fiscal year.
6. Operating experience of institutions in Oklahoma and institutions in the 10-state region including (a) ratios of students to faculty by level, (b) average salaries of full-time faculty by type of institution, and (c) total educational and general budget student per capita expenditure, should be recognized as influence factors when establishing instructional program costs. For the two comprehensive universities, the standard of reference should be the leading state universities in the region, including specifically the universities in the Big Eight Conference in which our two comprehensive universities are members.

7. Full-time-equivalent enrollment data should be based on the full fiscal year (summer, fall, and spring terms) with a factor of 30 student credit hours used to compute undergraduate enrollment and a factor of 24 student credit hours for graduate enrollment.
8. The needs for college-level trained manpower should be taken into consideration in determining priorities for funding at institutions.
9. A realistic estimate of revolving fund income should be made and applied toward meeting the institutional budget needs consistent with state law.

PROCEDURES—25 COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

The objective is to identify the cost of operating educational programs at institutions. To accomplish this, the instructional programs to be offered must be identified, the number of students by level to be enrolled in each program must be projected, and the cost per student by level must be calculated. Given these data, the cost for each instructional program is computed, and these costs are aggregated. An amount for research and an amount for public service is then determined, and these amounts are then added to the instructional cost. The sum of the costs for instruction, research and public service becomes the total educational and general budget of an institution. From this total the amount of estimated revolving fund income for the budget year is subtracted, and the difference is the amount of state-appropriated funds required to fund the institution's budget.

These procedures were followed in accomplishing the objective:

1. The instructional programs operating at each institution in the previous year are identified. Those programs not expected to operate in the budget year are deleted and those new programs expected to operate in the budget year are added.
2. The course composition of each of the instructional programs to be offered at an institution is then identified.
3. The cost of operating the instructional programs so identified by level in the budget year is next projected.
4. The number of full-time-equivalent students expected to enroll by level in the instructional programs during the full fiscal year for which the budget need is being determined is then projected.
5. The next step is to identify the cost of operating each instructional program for each student by level in the budget year, then multiply these cost units by the number of FTE students projected by level for the various programs that will operate in the budget year.
6. The cost of operating each instructional program is then computed and these are added to get the total cost of all instructional programs at the institution.

7. The amount of funds to be added to the budget for research is then determined. Basic functions of institutions will, of course, influence the determination of these amounts. Institutions that accomplish significant research must be provided funds accordingly. All institutions carry on some type of institutional research and study of programming and thus must be provided an allowance for this function of the budget.
8. Extension and public service is the third category of the educational program budget. Again, institutions' functional assignments will influence the degree to which they participate in extension programs and/or public service programs. An appropriate amount for this program is accordingly determined.
9. The final step is to add the amounts determined for (a) instructional programs, (b) research, and (c) extension and public service. This becomes the total amount of budget needs of the institution for the educational programs to be operated.

PROCEDURES—OSTEOPATHIC MEDICAL COLLEGE

The Oklahoma College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery: The budget for this institution is determined on the basis of needs to operate and establish courses and other operational requirements as the institution continues to develop and accept its seventh class of students. Instructional needs are computed to provide for the increased student enrollment over 1979-80 and adjusted for price increases. Requirements for General Administration, General Expense, Organized Research, Continuing Education, Library and Physical Plant Maintenance and Operation are based on 1979-80 budgeted amounts and adjusted for price increases. When computed, the amounts for all items are added to get the total budget requirement for the year. The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total budget and the balance is the amount that is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

PROCEDURES—8 OTHER CONSTITUENT AGENCIES

University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center: For the year 1980-81, a programmatic approach to the determination of educational and general budget needs was used. This approach identified six instructional programs: College of Medicine; College of Dentistry; College of Nursing; College of Health; College of Pharmacy; and Graduate College of Medical and Dental Science. Other budget functions include: Library; Continuing Education; Organized Research; General Administration; General Expense; and Physical Plant Maintenance and Operation. The budget for each division is calculated as stated below. When computed the amounts for all programs and functions comprise the budget required for the year. The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total budget and the balance is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

College of Medicine: Project full-year FTE student enrollment by student classification. Allow one FTE student for each 0.4 resident or physician associate. Allow one faculty position for each 4.6 FTE students. Multiply the number of FTE faculty positions by $38,150 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the amount needed for faculty salaries. Allow six other professional FTE positions at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $39,650 to determine salaries needed for these positions. Allow 109.4 other support personnel FTE positions (at the rate of 0.6 FTE positions per instructional faculty position) at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $11,100 to determine salaries needed for these positions. To the sum of all salaries, add 12.0% for staff benefits. Add 12.0% of total salaries and staff benefits for other expenses of the instructional program. The total of salaries and wages and other expenses becomes the total budget needs for the instructional program.

College of Dentistry: Allow 31 FTE dental faculty positions plus one position for each 4.6 projected FTE dental students above 48. Multiply the number of FTE dental faculty positions by $32,800 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the total amount needed for dental faculty salaries. Allow one FTE dental hygiene faculty position for each 12 projected FTE dental hygiene students. Multiply the number of FTE dental hygiene faculty positions by $22,000 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the total amount needed for dental hygiene faculty salaries. Allow three other professional FTE positions at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $39,650 to determine salaries needed for these positions. Allow 87.2 other support personnel FTE positions (at the rate of 1.0 per dental faculty and hygiene faculty position) at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $11,100 to determine salaries needed for these positions. To the sum of all salaries, add 12.0% for staff benefits. Add 12.0% of total salaries and staff benefits for other expenses of the instructional program. The total of salaries and wages and other expenses becomes the total budget needs for the instructional program.

College of Nursing: Project full-year FTE student enrollment by level. Allow one faculty position for each eight undergraduate FTE students and one faculty position for each five graduate FTE students. Multiply the number of FTE faculty positions by $23,200 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the amount needed for faculty salaries. Allow three other professional FTE positions at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $39,650 to determine salaries needed for these positions. Allow 31.4 other support personnel FTE positions (at the rate of 0.5 FTE positions per instructional faculty position) at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $11,100 to determine salaries needed for these positions. To the sum of all salaries, add 12.0% for staff benefits. Add 12.0% of total salaries and staff benefits for other expenses of the instructional program. The total of salaries and wages and other expenses becomes the total budget needs for the instructional program.

College of Health: Project full-year FTE student enrollment by level. Allow one faculty position for each 9.12 FTE students. Multiply the number of FTE faculty positions by $25,000 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the amount needed for faculty salaries. Allow three other professional FTE positions at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $39,650 to determine salaries needed for these positions. Allow 27.6 other support personnel FTE positions (at the rate of 0.46 FTE positions per instructional faculty position) at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $11,100 to determine salaries needed for these positions. To the sum of all salaries, add 12.0% for staff benefits. Add 12.0% of total salaries and staff benefits for other expenses of the instructional program. The total of salaries and wages and other expenses becomes the total budget needs for the instructional program.

College of Pharmacy: Project full-year FTE student enrollment by level. Allow one faculty position for each 20 undergraduate FTE students and one faculty position for each 12 graduate FTE students. Multiply the number of FTE faculty positions by $26,750 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the amount needed for faculty salaries. Allow two other professional FTE positions at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $39,650. Allow four other support personnel FTE positions at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $11,100 to determine salaries needed for these positions. To the sum of all salaries, add 12.0% for staff benefits. Add 12.0% of total salaries and staff benefits for other expenses of the instructional program. The total of salaries and wages and other expenses becomes the budget needs for the instructional program.

Graduate College of Medical and Dental Science: Project full-year full-time student enrollment. Allow one faculty position for each eight students. Multiply the number of FTE faculty positions by $33,400 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the amount needed for faculty salaries. Allow three other professional FTE positions at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $39,650 to determine salaries needed for these positions. Allow 4.4 other support personnel FTE positions (at the rate of 0.4 FTE positions per instructional faculty position) at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $11,100 to determine salaries needed for these positions. To the sum of all salaries add 12.0% for staff benefits. Add 12.0% of total salaries and staff benefits for other expenses of the instructional program. The total of salaries and wages and other expenses becomes the total budget needs for the instructional program.

Library: Allow ten professional personnel at an average full-year salary for 1980-81 of $19,548 to determine salaries needed for professional personnel. Allow 15.0 support personnel FTE positions at an average full-year salary of $11,100 to determine salaries for support personnel. To the sum of all salaries, add 12.0% for staff benefits. Add 12.0% of total salaries and staff benefits for other expenses. Add 57.3% of total salaries, staff benefits and other expenses for books, periodicals, library binding and printing, and other direct library expense. The total becomes the budget needs for Library.

General Administration: Project the amount for 1980-81 based on the agency's 1979-80 need for this function, adjusted 10.0% for price increases.

General Expense: Project the amount for 1980-81 based on the agency's 1979-80 need for this function, adjusted 10.0% for price increases.

Continuing Education: Project the amount for 1980-81 based on the agency's 1979-80 need for this function, with an allowance for a 10.0% increase during 1980-81.

Organized Research: Project the amount for 1980-81 based on the agency's 1979-80 need for this function with an allowance for a 10.0% increase during 1980-81.

Physical Plant Maintenance and Operation: Project the amount for 1980-81 based on the agency's need for this function for 1979-80, adjusted 12.5% for price increases.

University of Oklahoma Law Center: The budget for this agency is calculated on the basis of proposed programs of activities for the budget year 1980-81. For the budget year 1980-81, eleven programs are identified. For the instructional program, project full-year full-time student enrollment. Allow one faculty position for each 20 FTE students enrollment. Multiply the total number of FTE faculty positions by $36,000 (average 9/10 month salary for 1980-81) to determine the amount needed for faculty salaries. Allow for support personnel services, equipment, supplies, and materials as allowed in 1979-80 and adjusted for enrollment and price increases. Allow the same positions as allowed in 1979-80 and the amounts for other objects of expenditure as allowed in 1979-80 and adjusted for price increases. Allow $10,000 for the Experimental Admissions Program. Allow $25,000 for the Paralegal Education Program. When computed, the amounts for all primary programs are added to get the requirements for the year. To this amount is added the student special enrichment program estimated at a cost equal to the special law school student fee ($2.00 per student-credit-hour x 19,500 SCH). The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total primary budget and the balance is the amount that is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

Oklahoma Geological Survey: The total budget for this agency is calculated on the basis of proposed programs of activities for the budget year 1980-81. For the budget year 1980-81, eleven programs are identified. The amounts for all programs are added to get the total budget requirement for the year. The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total budget and the balance is the amount that is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

OSU College of Veterinary Medicine: Project full-year FTE student enrollment. Allow one faculty position for each 5.3 FTE students. Multiply the FTE faculty positions by $32,400 (average full-year salary for 1980-81) to determine the total amount needed for faculty salaries. Add to this, 33% for other instructional expenses, and the total represents the amount allowed for the function of instruction. This figure becomes the budget base and the following percentages are applied to the budget base for the other functions of the budget: General Administration, 6%; General Expense, 5%; Teaching Hospital, 30%; Extension and Public Service, 10%, Organized Research, 14%; Library, 4%; and Physical Plant, 15%. When computed, the amounts for all budget functions are added to get the total budget requirement for the year. Allow $1,000,000 for the operation of the New Teaching Hospital. The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total budget and the balance is the amount that is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

OSU Agricultural Experiment Station: The budget for this agency is determied on a basis which provides for a significant increase in the volume of research and experimentation. It provides for a more selective approach to projects undertaken to assure that they are strictly agricultural in nature. The 1980-81 budget for this agency is determined on a program basis. This approach identifies the functions of General Administration and General Expense and three broad program areas of research and experimentation. These programs are Animal Production, Plant Production, and Other Research. Needs for each major budget category are based on the volume of work assigned for the current year which is to be continued and allows a factor for inflation. In addition, there are provided substantial funds for implementing the findings of a State Regents' study completed in November 1979. The amounts for all programs are added to get the total budget requirements for the year. The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total budget and the balance is the amount that is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

OSU Agricultural Extension Division: The budget for this agency is determined on a basis which provides for a more selective approach to projects undertaken to assure they are in accordance with the function and programs assigned the agency. The 1980-81 budget for this agency is determined on a program basis. This approach identifies the functions of General Administration, General Expense, and four broad program areas of agricultural extension. These programs are Agriculture, Home Economics, 4-H and Youth, and Rural Development. Needs for each major budget category are based on the volume of work assigned for the current year which is to be continued and allows a factor for inflation. In addition, there are provided funds for implementing the findings of a State Regents' study completed in November 1979. The amounts for all programs are added to get the total budget requirements for the year. The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total budget and the balance is the amount that is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

OSU School of Technical Training and Oklahoma City Technical Institute: The budgets for these agencies are determined on the basis of the cost of instructional programs to be offered during the fiscal year 1980-81. In previous years the budgets were determined on a budget function basis. However, continued study and accumulated data have permitted the determination of needs on a program budget basis.

The base year costs of each program at these agencies are determined. These costs are then interpreted on a full-time-equivalent student basis. For those programs to be offered during 1980-81, the costs are projected to that year.

The number of full-time-equivalent students expected to enroll in each program during the full-year 1980-81 is then projected. This number is multiplied by the budget year costs as determined above and results in the amount needed for each instructional program. The sum of all programs is the budget needs for instructional programs. To this amount is added an amount for extension and public service and organized research. The combined amounts make up the total budget needs for the year. The amount estimated to be collected during the year in revolving funds is subtracted from the total budget needs and the balance is the amount that is requested to be appropriated by the Legislature.

ESTIMATING INCOME

An estimate is made of the amount of income expected to be collected at each institution and agency from student fees, from sales and services, and miscellaneous sources; and the total of this is subtracted from the total institutional budget requirement. The difference then becomes the amount requested for appropriation by the Legislature.

"State-Appropriated Funds" are those funds appropriated by the Legislature to the State Regents to be allocated to constituent institutions and agencies. "Revolving Funds" are those funds which the institutions receive from the student fees, sales and services of educational departments, the Federal government in some instances, and from other miscellaneous sources. The amount of "Revolving Funds" income is estimated for each institution after taking into consideration its fee schedule, the function of the institution and possible charges to be made by the institution for the different services rendered, and the past experience of the institution as to funds actually received from the various sources.

STATE REGENTS' NO. 220 LOAN FUND

Title 70, O.S. 1971 Section 3211, provides for a loan fund in the amount of $200,000.00 to be used by the Regents for making loans to institutions for certain purposes. The fund was originally established by the Legislature in 1943 in House Bill 403.

The loan fund has served a very useful purpose in allowing institutions to meet many needs on a current basis which otherwise might have taken several years to accomplish if the loan fund had not been available. The fund turned over many times since its establishment. In fact, over one million dollars has been loaned to the various institutions over the past three decades.

The status of the loan funds as of June 30, 1980 was as follows:

Total Amount of Loan Fund		$200,000.00
Cash on Hand 7-1-79		120,000.00
Loans Outstanding 7-1-79
East Central Oklahoma State University	$ 25,000.00

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS

In the fall of 1963, the State Regents conducted an extensive survey of the physical facilities on each campus in The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education. This survey provided the basis for a projection of the capital outlay funds needed over the ten-year period 1965-1975.

For funding purposes this ten-year program was divided into two phases. Funds provided by the 1965 Oklahoma Building Bond Issue, together with available federal matching funds, were committed to accomplish the needs identified for the first phase (1965-70) of the ten-year program.

Approved projects with total development costs of $67,508,695 for capital improvement projects funded with 1965 Oklahoma Building Bond Funds were identified as of June 30, 1980. State bond funds have been combined with federal funds and other funds to comprise the total. A program report as of June 30, 1980, is presented in the following table.

1968 OKLAHOMA BUILDING BOND ISSUE

In February, 1968, the State Regents published a research report updating the capital improvements needs of institutions in The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education through 1975. This document set forth the need for approximately 1,500,000 square feet of assignable space for academic facilities.

A summary of the funds required to accomplish the needs as documented in this report is contained in the following tables.

SUMMARY OF FUNDS NEEDED FOR CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS, THE OKLAHOMA STATE SYSTEM OF HIGHER EDUCATION[a] 1967-1975

Approval by the people of Oklahoma on December 10, 1968, of State Question 463 provided $42,250,000 for capital improvements projects in Oklahoma higher education. These funds together with federal funds expected to be available to Oklahoma should have made possible the accomplishment of the first three years of the Phase Two program. Immediately following the approval of State Question 463 however, the Federal Government started reducing drastically the appropriations for the construction of academic facilities. Since the state bond funds were expected to be matched with federal funds, only a few projects were able to be started with the small amount of available federal funds. The remaining projects were held over awaiting federal matching funds.

University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center

In June of 1965, the State Regents completed a comprehensive study of medical education needs in Oklahoma. That study, made in connection with the Self-Study of Higher Education in Oklahoma, set forth a series of recommendations for meeting the state's health education requirements. Recommendation Five, directed to the administration and governing board of the Health Sciences Center, called for the development of a complete "master plan for long-range campus development as quickly as possible." The Health Sciences Center was asked to redefine its mission in terms of the state's present and future medical manpower requirements, identify land needs, provide for the functional location of new space requirements, and establish a plan of priorities for construction.

Funds available from the 1961 and 1963 Bond Issues in the amount of $8,000,000 together with federal matching funds permitted the early construction of two major elements of the long-range plan—(1) University Hospital, and (2) Basic Sciences Medical Education Building.

In January, 1967, the State Regents approved a proposed ten-year fiscal plan for the redevelopment of the Health Sciences Center. Phases One and Two of this plan as shown in the following table were included in State Question 463, approved by the people on December 10, 1968. This bond issue provided $26,870,000 in state funds, making possible a total program of expansion at the Health Sciences Center of $55,450,000.

The Revised Phase II Program

In November of 1972, the State Regents published a report on academic facilities utilization entitled Utilization of Academic Space: Colleges and Universities in The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education—Fall Semester, 1971. The report indicated a lack of need for additional new construction at all campuses in the State System. This report together with new enrollment projections showing a leveling of enrollments clearly indicated a new far better utilization of existing facilities instead of new construction.

The 1973 Oklahoma Legislature subsequently passed Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 8 which released the federal matching fund requirement and directed the 1968 bond funds to be expended for renovation, modernization, and equipping the existing academic buildings. The institutions began preparing revised campus master plans according to the intent of the resolution and consistent with guidelines and procedures adopted by the State Regents.

As of June 30, 1974, the Oklahoma Legislature has vitalized and issued bonds for a total of $44,500,000 ($23,500,000 of the $42,250,000 authorized for regular higher education institutions and $26,870,000 of the $26,870,000 authorized for the Oklahoma University Medical Center). Through the period ending June 30, 1980, projects for capital improvements in the State System funded from the 1968 Bond Issue have been completed or started as shown in the following table.

STUDENT FEES

Title 70, O.S. Supp. 1977, Sections 3218, 3219, and 3220 authorizes the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education to fix student fees in The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education within limits prescribed by the Legislature.

State educational institutions may be authorized by the State Regents to contract for, charge, collect, receive and use, any and all fees, tuition, charges, grants, and allowances available through the United States Veterans Administration, or any other federal agency, for the education and training of veterans.

The State Regents are also authorized to establish a system of student fee waiver scholarships for each institution in The Oklahoma State System of Higher Education to be administered by the Board of Regents of the institution.

In order that all concerned—students, parents, institutional officers, Boards of Regents, members of the Legislature and other interested individuals—may have the information available, a Schedule of Fees authorized by the State Regents at each institution in the State System effective Fall Semester, 1980, as amended, has been printed and is available at the office of the State Regents.
